Campaign Notes—

Loughran Story Is Revealed by GOP Candidates

County Office Seekers Answer Frank Questions About 'Rebel'

By ALLEN KLINE

Westmoreland County Republican candidates "met the press" in a bristling question-and-answer session yesterday which produced these replies:

1. The Republican party in the county could not "afford" the support of "rebel" Democrat Joseph Loughran.

2. The GOP county organization is having trouble with its finances.

3. The Republican candidates are campaigning as a team even though individual advertising is permitted.

4. County GOP leaders do not object to the campaign technique of John R. Stieska, Monessen mayoralty nominee who is distributing literature which advises "you can elect all of these registered Democrats by voting straight Republican."

5. Some county industry is now putting money into the Democratic campaign.

6. Properly informed Republican "watchers" will be stationed at all precincts in Monessen and Rostraver Twp. on the Nov. 5 election day.

All county Republican candidates were on hand for the press conference held in the Mountain View Hotel near Latrobe. Smith McKee Jr., GOP campaign coordinator, invited the newsmen to ask any questions, "even those which may seem embarrassing or personal."

Rejoins Machine

A good part of the discussion centered on Loughran, a long-time member of the Democratic organization who split away early this year to seek a nomination for judge of common pleas court.

Loughran has since rejoined the Democratic machine.

The Republican candidates pieced together information on Loughran which told "an amazing story of political expediency."

McKee said he had been approached by Sheriff Howard Thomas, Loughran's campaign manager, following the primary election. Loughran, he said, wanted the third spot on the GOP ticket and offered to support the next Republican gubernatorial candidate if he (Loughran) were nominated for judge by a special party convention.

Avra N. Pershing, a judicial candidate, said Loughran — through his campaign leaders — promised to raise $35,000 for the Republican campaign if nominated.

When Loughran failed in his bid to win either the Republican or Democratic nominations, he then offered — once again through his campaign leaders — to support the GOP ticket providing the party would raise "about $25,000" to finance his organization, it was stated.

The Republicans denied that they "beat a path" to Loughran's door to ask his support as he has stated in recent speeches. As a matter of fact, the GOP candidates agreed that no one with authority ever approached Loughran.

Lose in 'Deal'

Joseph R. Hunter, candidate for coroner, said the Republican party would have lost "favor and prestige" by making a "deal" with Loughran.

Pershing added that while the Republican candidates were not particularly interested in Loughran's support, they did seek the backing of all independent Democrats.

Pershing, Robert H. Rial and

Bauer Lashes His Critics for 'Attacks on Court'

In an address before 150 persons at a Westmoreland County Democratic rally in Latrobe last night, incumbent Judge Edward G. Bauer lashed out at his Republican opponents for "their attacks on the courts."

Bauer said that any lawyer who "attacks, without cause or proof, the creditability of our courts for political gain, is not fit to be a lawyer, let alone be a judge and sit in judgment of his fellow man."

Judge Bauer also labeled one of the opposition candidates as "a corporation and insurance lawyer," and cited the fact that he has not seen the name of another candidate on the trial list of the courts for many years.

In his remarks, District Attorney L. Alexander Sculco, a candidate for judge, praised the progress of the county. He said the crime rate of the county is the lowest in history, and the population is increasing, with more industries and people coming here.

Weiss Hits Critics

Monessen's Judge David H. Weiss, who is seeking a full term on the bench, hit at the opposition's claim to being impartial, stating "one of their candidates is a former county Republican chairman. Their own state Republican chairman has told the people that they must elect three judges and a district attorney to get the county back in the GOP column. Does

John Hunt Is Named Winner In Grid Contest

Three contestants guessed right on 11 of 12 games in last week's Daily Independent football contest.

John Hunt, of 538 Donner Ave., Monessen, earned first place money of $15 under contest rules designed to break ties.

Hunt selected 35 points as the highest number scored by a winning team. And the correct total was exactly 35.

Also picking winners in 11 of 12 games were Mrs. Helen Bucci, Belle Vernon R. D. 1; and Steve Vlasic, 1012 Dennis Ave., Monessen. Mrs. Bucci won the second place award of $7.50 by picking 30 points. Vlasic was third with his 42 point guess which won him $5.

Hunt miscued on Redskins-Giants game. So did Vlasic. Mrs. Bucci's only mistake was picking Syracuse to beat Penn State.

This week's contest entry blank appears today on Page 21.

Reds Meet To Decide On Zhukov

MOSCOW (UP) — The Central Committee of the Soviet Communist Party was reported meeting again today to decide the future of Marshal Georgi Zhukov.

Zhukov was relieved Saturday of his post as minister of the armed forces, and the Soviet army newspaper today revived the case of a "conceited, complacent" military man who had received "strict party punishment."

The Red Star also carried an editorial hammering away at the theme of party control of the army. This and similar editorials in service papers was interpreted as a preparation of public opinion for any major announcement.

However there was no confirmation of reports that the 133-man Central Committee was considering removing Zhukov from the 15-man party Presidium, or high command to which he was elected only last June.

Reliable reports said the Central Committee met Monday to consider the Zhukov case and then was called into session today.

'Serious Blunders'

There was no specific mention of Zhukov today in the Moscow newspapers but Red Star, organ of the Soviet army, pointedly told the story of a Communist in the armed forces who "successfully mastered his duties," but neglected his shortcomings and let praise "turn his head."

The Communist, identified in the story only as Velikolug, made "serious blunders" and "received strict party punishment," the newspaper said.

Presumably the members of the Soviet armed forces who read the paper could decide for themselves whether any of the criticisms apply to Zhukov who was once their chief.

Zhukov, a professional soldier, led the successful fight to reduce the power of political commissars over regular army officers in World War II when the commissars could veto front line commanders.

Official Russian armed services publications have complained in recent weeks that servicemen were not being indoctrinated properly in the way of the party which is led by Nikita S. Khrushchev. They suggested something be done to remedy this.

Relieved Past Saturday

Rumors swept the world as to the future of the field marshal who was relieved Saturday of his post as minister of the armed forces. There were reports the Central Committee of the Communist Party was meeting to decide his fate —and more rumors it already had acted.

There were no official statements to back any of the reports discussed by diplomats and politicians from Moscow to Washington, and no official indication whether the war-time friend of President Eisenhower was headed up or down on the Russian political elevator.

Newsmen and diplomats expected an announcement in Moscow late Monday night or early this morning but none came.

The Zhukov story began Satur-

Congress May Open Hearings Next Month

WASHINGTON (UP) — A full-scale Congressional inquiry may start early next month on the U. S. position in the battle with Russia for missile superiority, Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said today.

Mansfield said preliminary work has been completed for hearings to be held either by the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee or the full Senate Armed Services Committee.

President Eisenhower today presumably is pursuing his own assessment of the nation's missile and scientific effort to meet the Russian challenge. He conferred with Dr. Isadore I. Rabi, chairman of his Scientific Advisory Committee, Defense Mobilizer Gordon Gray and Special Assistant Robert Cutler, who is in charge of National Security Council affairs.

Will Meet With Strauss

Later, he met with Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Lewis L. Strauss. Their conference was expected to explore the exchange of atomic information with Britain and other allies and possibly the development of a super scientific alliance proposed by the President and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan for the free world.

With Gray and Rabi the President had as possible prime topics a scientific speedup recommended by top scientists and the reallocation of strategic materials, necessitated by the new emphasis on missiles which require special metals and fuels.

A sudden cancellation was ordered Monday by Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy in a previous order by his predecessor, Charles E. Wilson, which would have slashed military research and development funds by 170 million dollars.

Mansfield said he was glad to see the administration "carrying out the intent of Congress" by restoring the research funds.

Hopes For Cooperation

The Montana Democrat also said he hoped President Eisenhower's administration would prepare legislation to bring about more cooperation between scientists of Euratom nations and particularly those of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization with U.S. scientists

There were these other developments:

—At Jefferson City, Mo., Sen. Stuart Symington declared the Eisenhower administration has "done nothing" since Sputnik was launched Oct. 4.

—There were more reassuring reports on U.S. missile development. The latest: encouraging progress on a rocket to intercept and destroy enemy ballistic missiles.

—At Philadelphia, NATO Secretary - General Paul - Henri Spaak said the U.S. should share its technical secrets with friendly nations. He said the West can't afford to disperse its scientific effort any longer.

Ambulance Hit At Intersection; Two Are Hurt

An ambulance carrying a stroke victim to a hospital was involved in a collision with a car at the intersection of Seneca St. and Schoonmaker Ave., Monessen, about 4:45 yesterday afternoon.

Driver of the ambulance, H. Denver Rhome, 688 McKee Ave., Monessen, told police he was on his way to Monongahela Memorial Hospital with Michael Lacanic, of Union Hotel at First St. and Schoonmaker Ave., Monessen, when the accident occurred.

Police said the red warning light was flashing and sirens were open when the ambulance was struck by a car as it attempted to cross the intersection on a red traffic light. Driver of the car was Thomas Zborowski, 125 Seneca St., Monessen, who was attempting to turn onto Schoonmaker from Seneca St.

Lacanic, it was said, suffered no ill effects because of the crash but two passengers in the car were slightly injured. They were Ronald, 6, and Donald Zborowski, 2. They were treated by a local physician for cuts and bruises.

Rhome and Westmoreland County Coroner Stephen D. Yoney, Monessen, who was accompanying Rhome, were not injured.

Hospital reports today said Lacanic is in "fair" condition.

Both vehicles were towed away.

Dulles Alerts U. S. to Possible Red Action

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today that the current power struggle in the Kremlin requires the United States to be alert for a possible Russian adventure.

Dulles did not say whether this might take the form of a military or diplomatic action.

Dulles told a news conference he would not suggest that war is just around the corner. He said the administration does not believe now that a war is in prospect.

But Dulles said it must be remembered that whenever a great nation seems to be having internal problems that they sometimes lead to external actions to divert attention.

Must Be Alert

We have to be alert, he warned in appraising the ouster of Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov.

Dulles did not definitely say a Soviet military action, but presumably that was in his mind.

Dulles said the prolonged sessions of the Communist Party's Central Committee indicate there are very important issues being solved by Kremlin leaders.

He suggested that the problems are more domestic than international. But when asked point-blank whether he considers Zhukov's situation "good news or bad news," Dulles said he did not know. He said he could only tell after the final outcome is known.

Dulles conferred Monday with President Eisenhower for about an hour. But aides said the Zhukov removal and its implications to the Parking Lot In Donora Has Legal Problem

An effort by Donora to develop an off-street parking lot in the heart of the downtown business section has run into legal problems.

The site of the proposed parking area is owned by Albert Faller, retired Donora business man presently living in Michigan. The location is now occupied by the Gulf Oil Co., which holds option on the property located off of Sixth St.

Gulf has promised to sell the the property to the Donora Parking Authority with a provision that its service station be retained on the lot until Dec. 15.

Faller, however, has refused to convey the property to Gulf and the matter has gone to Washington County Court. Originally the case was to be heard Nov. 1, but the court granted a delay until January at the request of Faller's attorney.

Damage was minor.

Cheerleaders to Enter Float in Halloween Parade

The eye-appealing Monessen High School cheerleaders have entered a float in the annual Monessen Halloween parade set for downtown Thursday night, Edward Lhota, general chairman, announced today. Thus far, nine floats have been entered.

Besides the floats, there will be plenty of music to add to the mardi gras-type atomosphere that is expected to prevail. Sending out music will be the Monessen, Rostraver Twp. and Donora High School bands, Monessen Boys Brigade and Fayette City drum and bugle corps and Donora Scottish Kilt band.

Marching to the music will be hundreds of mummers who will be competing for over $600 in prizes. Judges will be stationed along the route of march to pick out the best, funniest and most originally dressed individual participants. Young and old alike will take part in the merriment.

The parade is being sponsored jointly by the Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce, Lions Club and Fire Departments.

The starting point and line of march for the parade will be announced tomorrow.

Pricedale Man Gets Long Term For Burglaries

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)— A 24-year-old Westmoreland County man, who authorities said has been in and out of jail since he was 12 years old, was sentenced to 40 to 80 years in prison today when he pleaded guilty to 11 charges of burglary and larceny.

Cyril Brown, 24, Pricedale, compiled the offenses since being released from a federal penitentiary last Aug. 10. He admitted stealing two automobiles, cash, clothing, jewelry, gasoline and other property in his crime spree. Value of the loot was more than $4,000.

State police said the fast-traveling thief drove one of the stolen cars more than 6,000 miles in 24 days before abandoning it. He was apprehended in Centre County early this month.

Judge Richard D. Laird sentenced Brown to consecutive terms of 10 to 20 years on each of four counts and imposed concurrent or suspended sentences on the remaining seven.

The thefts to which Brown pleaded guilty today occurred in Greensburg, Madison, Mt. Pleasant Borough, and the townships of Hempfield, Mt. Pleasant, East Huntingdon and Donegal.

Railroad Fare Boost Is Rejected by PUC

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Public Utility Commission today rejected a proposal by three Pennsylvania railroads to put an average 15 per cent commuter fare increase in effect immediately, subject to refund if the hike was later found unjustified.

The commission action was on a request by the Pennsylvania, Reading and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroads to lift a six-month suspension of proposed commuter fare increases.

The railroads complained the delay caused them "irreparable" financial harm.

The proposals were suspended for investigation last July and public hearings of the boosts are still in progress. The commission said evidence submitted by the railroads at four hearings was under study and "much questioning and investigation" was still necessary to clarify the testimony.

Chairman Leon Schwartz, Nanticoke, and Commissioners P. Stephen Stahlnecker and Joseph Sharfsin, both Philadelphia, voted against the immediate fare increase petition. Commissioner Henry Houck, Shenandoah, favored lifting the suspension, while Commissioner John Conly, Pittsburgh, was absent.

The proposed fares are under suspension until next Jan. 16. Additional hearings were scheduled Wednesday and Thursday in Philadelphia City Hall.

The PRR moved to lift the suspension at the Sept. 12 hearing on grounds it was losing about $800,000 annually by the delay. The railroad said it would give commuters receipts if the new fares were allowed pending a final order.

The suspended schedules would add 75 cents to weekly tickets; $1.50 to 20-trip tickets; $1.80 to 24-trip tickets; $2.70 to restricted monthly tickets; $3 to unrestricted monthly tickets, and $2.25 to school tickets.

Local Clergy Rally Behind Library Bond

Monessen's clergymen have rallied behind the proposed $200,000 bond issue to finance construction of a new library building.

Ministers representing all of the city's major faiths urged from the pulpit on Sunday that their parishioners vote in favor of the bond issue at the general election next Tuesday.

Most of those who did not comment on the library this Sunday, plan to do so at services next Sunday, a survey by The Daily Independent indicated today.

Typical of the support given by the clergy was that of Rev. Abner P. Richard Jr., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. He strongly urged his congregation to vote "Yes" and "give Monessen the library it deserves."

The Rev. Mr. Richard spoke for about five minutes on the library question before beginning his regular morning sermon.

He said one of the basic teachings of the Scripture is that, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

"One of the best ways of discovering truth is in reading," he said. "And our community should have a library making good reading available to all."

Rev. Joseph Gajdosik, pastor of Holy Name R. C. Church, also made a strong plea for the library bond issue.

Father Gajdosik devoted a section of his Sunday bulletin to explaining the need for a new building, then urged support from the pulpit. He also placed a huge poster boosting the bond issue in the vestibule of the church.

"I intend to remind my parishioners of the bond issue again this Sunday," said Father Gajdosik.

Another boost for the library appeared in the St. Leonard R. C. Church Bulletin. Rev. Martin J. O'Toole, parish administrator, re-

Loses His Race With Train to Crossing

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UP) — Richard B. Auld, 22, Washington, nursing a broken nose, admitted today that he tried to beat a freight train to a crossing with his automobile but lost.

State police said Auld's car was demolished at a rural road grade crossing about a mile north of here Monday when it collided with a Pennsylvania Railroad freight.

Auld said he attempted to beat the train to the crossing and decided too late he would not make it. He said he stepped on the brakes and his car skidded into the path of the train.

He was treated for a broken nose at a hospital and released.

Willis E. Topper, the GOP judicial nominees, agreed that the two big issues of the campaign are: 1. Should judges be machine politicians? 2. Should Arthur (Buddy) Turner exert such an influence on the county's political life?

Wayne R. Donahue, candidate for district attorney, said he felt his Democratic opponent, Earl Keim, should make clear whether he intends to reappoint Turner as chief county detective.

Here are some other questions and answers:

Are the Republican candidates campaigning as a team or as individuals as billboard advertising would seem to indicate?

McKee and publicity chairman W. Lowrie Kay said the candidates were definitely campaigning as a team. They said a budget has been set up for promotion of the straight Republican ticket. Daniel J. Snyder, campaign treasurer, pointed out that each candidate is also permitted to advertise in his own behalf.

Aren't the Republican charges in reference to judicial ethics going over the heads of most voters?

The judicial candidates said they hoped not since it was a key point in the campaign. Pershing said "judicial ethics, like the Ten Commandments, are not a new device; they are laws to govern all judges, including those in Westmoreland County."

Is there anything really wrong in the Democratic party organization's system of promoting district attorney's to judges?

"Not if you're a district attorney," quipped Rial.

In a more serious vein, it was pointed out that most cases are tried in civil court. Consequently members of the district attorney's office who work in criminal court, more often than not have less trial experience than other lawyers. Topper added that he felt judges should be elected on a "non-partisan" basis.

Is there anything unethical about Stieska's campaign in Monessen?

Not at all, said Snyder. Stieska is urging a straight Republican vote for both county and city candidates. By coincidence, all Republican city candidates happen to be registered Democrats.

What is the party's financial condition?

Not good, admitted McKee. He said that industry, particularly in the New Kensington area, is pouring money into the Democratic coffers.

"The Democratic party can no longer claim to be the party of the little man," observed McKee. "The big boys are financing it in the county."

Also attending the press conference were Robert L. Kunkle, candidate for clerk of courts; Mrs. Nelle Anderson, vice-chairman of the county committee; Edward Stefl, campaign chairman for the third legislative district; and attorney Edward Stiteler.

Newsmen from Monessen, Greensburg, Latrobe and Jeannette took part in the questioning.

Missouri Doctor Tells Why He Quit Communist Party in 1955

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP) — A Missouri physician told a Senate subcommittee Monday he quit the Communist Party in 1955, "disillusioned" by Communist Party Boss Khrushchev's attack on the late Joseph Stalin.

Dr. Ralph Franklin, of Morehouse, Mo., was praised for his "frank testimony" by Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.), of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

"Doctor, if more people would do like you have, this menace of Communism would not be a threat to this country today," Jenner said.

Franklin said he was "immature politically" when he joined the party early in 1954 while a student at the University of Tennessee medical units here. Franklin said he was invited into the party by a classmate, whom he identified as Dr. Vincent Myers of Ohio.

Donald West, Douglasville, Ga., farmer, took refuge behind the Fifth Amendment when asked if he was in charge of the Communist Party in Atlanta. He invoked the amendment more than 20 times, even refusing to confirm his wife's name was Jeanette.

Robert Morris, chief counsel for the subcommittee, called him "one of the more prominent Communist organizers in the South over a period of years."

The committee hearings were proceeding quietly when Frank Schroeder, chief investigator, asked Mrs. Grace Lorch of Little Rock, Ark., to meet with committee members in executive session.

"I'm not going in there alone," shouted Mrs. Lorch, who figured prominently in the integration troubles at Little Rock's Central High School.

Mrs. Lorch protected a Negro student from a jeering white mob the day the Negroes were turned away from Central High by National Guard troops.

Pointing her finger at Schroeder, Mrs. Lorch said she would testify only with a lawyer and "with a whole roomful of people listening."

Jenner gave her 24 hours to obtain counsel.

Norstad also predicted, in another warning to Russia, that his forces would "respond forcefully and effectively" to any Soviet inspired attack on Turkey.

Mollet Is Rejected in France; Financial Whiz Felix Gaillard Tapped

PARIS (UP)—The National Assembly early today rejected Socialist Guy Mollet's attempt to form a new government. President Rene Coty promptly tapped young financial wizard Felix Gaillard, Radical Party leader, to make the next try.

The assembly turned down Mollet by a 290-227 vote, thus prolonging the four-week political crisis conceded to be the worst since World War II. The Conservatives lined up with the Communists and extreme Right Wing Poujadists to defeat him.

At 4:40 a.m. Coty summoned Gaillard to the palace. He is 37 and finance minister in the government of caretaker Premier Maurice Bourges - Maunoury.

To Announce Decision

A half hour later Gaillard emerged and announced he would decide later in the day whether he would make the effort to become France's 24th postwar premier.

Standing on the chilly steps of Elysee Palace before sunrise, Gaillard told reporters his task was a formidable one, indicating he did not hold too much hope of success. Observers gave him a 50-50 chance.

The Conservative votes actually were what killed Mollet's chances since he had counted on Communist and Poujadist opposition. The Conservatives refused to accept his insistence that pensions and health benefits be increased even at the cost of higher taxes.

He Devalued Franc

It was Gaillard's virtual devaluation of the franc this summer that brought home forcibly to Frenchmen the seriousness of their country's economic plight.

Gaillard's try will be the fifth since the Bourges - Maunoury government fell Sept. 30. Mollet tried twice. The other attempts were made by Conservative Antoine Pinay and Radical Socialist Rene Pleven.

Mollet's defeat was expected to strengthen demands for immediate dissolution of the assembly and new parliamentary election.

It also was certain to stimulate sentiment in favor of calling wartime resistance hero Gen. Charles de Gaulle to step in and give France a "strong man" governmental system.

Zhukov

day night when Radio Moscow carried a tersely worded announcement he had been relieved from his post and replaced by Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky. There was no indication whether he would be promoted or whether he was on the way out.

Rumors Were Rampant

Immediately rumors and predictions began flying. Many persons felt Zhukov would be put in the post now held by Marshal Nikolai Bulganin—the premiership.

But there were no further announcements and opinion changed —Zhukov was on the way down.

Many observers tagged Zhukov the logical successor to Communist Party leader Nikita S. Khrushchev. His mission to woo Marshal Tito away from U.S. influence was regarded as an indication of the trust placed in him.

The meetings with Tito apparently failed. Zhukov postponed his return to Moscow to visit Albania. He flew back to the Russian capital, and half an hour later Moscow Radio announced he had been relieved.

Final Meetings on Merger of Churches

PITTSBURGH (UP) — The final session of a two-day series of meetings was held here today between leaders of the Presbyterian Church in the United States and the United Presbyterian Church of North America on the forthcoming merger of the two groups.

The meetings are the first in a series scheduled to iron out details of the union which will be completed here May 28, 1958 with a general assembly. The merged group will be known as the United Presbyterian Church in the United States of America.

LONDON (UP)—Lana Turner is ill with influenza and temporarily unable to continue filming "Another Time Another Place" at nearby Elstree, it was announced today.

Ten Teenagers Arrested for Attack on Cop

CHICAGO (UP)—Ten teenagers, seven of them girls, spent the night in jail following an attack on a policeman who attempted to break up an alley fight between two girls.

Another youth, Stanley Winters, 15, was hospitalized with a cracked scalp. Twelve squads of police broke up the free-for-all Monday when more than 100 resentful teenagers mobbed off-duty policeman Emmett James, kicking and beating him as his wife tried to pull the screaming pack away.

James, 40, said he dashed from his house when he saw the mob of teenagers encouraging the fighting girls, one of whom was pounding the other's head against a garage door.

Instead of obeying his order to break up, James said, Winters attempted to wrest his club away. The surging group of teenagers then attacked him and beat him to the ground. His wife was joined by a group of firemen who succeeded in dragging James to safety.

The teenagers then began fighting among themselves, the brawl getting larger every minute as new students pitched into the fray.

When police arrived, the students took to their heels.

Crucible Steel Mine in Shutdown

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (UP)—The Crucible Steel Corp. coal mine at nearby Crucible was shutdown today by a seniority dispute.

More than 500 miners walked out Monday in protest against the layoff of 83 miners last Friday. The miners, members of the United Mine Workers, said seniority rights were disregarded in the layoff.

quested St. Leonard parishioners to vote "Yes" on the bond issue.

At Trinity Episcopal Church, library literature was distributed at Sunday services. Rev. David J. Dillon Jr., pastor, asked the congregation to support the library.

Rev. Leroy S. Cass, pastor at the First Methodist Church, said that letters supporting the library will be mailed this week to all members of the congregation. The Rev. Mr. Cass also plans to devote part of Sunday's sermon to the issue.

Likewise Capt. John Connors, of the Monessen Salvation Army Citadel, will explain the library bond on Sunday.

Rev. Vernon Bowers pastor of the First Christian Church, has been ill for the past few weeks and was unable to attend a meeting of clergymen last week to discuss the library bond. However he plans to give the library his full backing during next Sunday's sermon.

Rabbi Theodore Stampfer, of Kneseth Israel Synagogue, explained the library bond and offered to answer any questions on the subject.

The city's Orthodox priests also indicated that they will go over the library bond with their parishioners, probably at services on Sunday.

Probers Hear More On Busting of Unions

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Rackets Committee called another employe of labor relations consultant Nathan W. Shefferman today to tell more alleged union-busting by Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the witness was Edmund Wroblewski of Chicago, who operated under the name of Ed Robey when he fought union organizing efforts at a Sears store in Boston.

Wroblewski-Robey was not the first Shefferman employe to admit using false names when fighting union organizing efforts. James T. Neilsen testified Monday he used the names James Guffey and Fred Warren in Boston and Jim Edwards and Jim Neil on other cases.

Wanted Identity Kept Secret

Neilsen said he did not want union organizers to recognize his name and "make an issue" of his undercover work for management among a "spontaneous" group of anti-union employes.

Sears salesman Angelo Gimmasi charged that another Shefferman staffer, Louis Jackson, "double-crossed" him in the 1953 organizing drive by backing an unaffiliated union against the efforts of the AFL Retail Clerks Union.

Another Sears salesman, James R. Donoghue, testified he was bitter at the retail clerks and was going along with efforts of the Teamsters Union to sign up Sears workers. He said he agreed to let his car be damaged so the retail clerks would be blamed.

Donoghue said Sears replaced free the tubes of three tires which were stabbed with icepicks.

Got Paid For Time

Harry E. Farren, a free lance writer, former newspaperman and Sears employe, said Jackson gave him $200 or $300 to make up for time he lost working for the independent union.

The committee dipped back into an earlier investigation to hear Raymond Cohen, secretary and business manager of Teamster Local 107 at Philadelphia.

Cohen refused to produce his records despite a committee subpena for them. He declined to answer a score of questions about his affairs including the purchase of a $24,000 yacht. He admitted he promised Sept. 26 to bring in the records but said he has "since changed my mind."

Egypt Accuses U. S. of Plotting Against Syria

Marks the First Anniversary of Israel Invasion

By UNITED PRESS

Egypt observed the first anniversary of the Israeli invasion today by accusing the United States of plotting against Syria.

Cairo newspapers hailed the day as "Hero's Day" and reported that President Gamal Abdel Nasser would speak on the occasion.

The English language Egyptian Gazette recalled that the United States was one of the first nations to speak out against the Israeli-British-French invasion and said it was repeating their mistakes.

"Exactly one year after the Suez aggression it seems as if a similar venture is being prepared. Again there is the threat of a third world war," it said.

Other newspapers failed to recall U.S. intervention on Egypt's side and Al Shaab said "America is preparing to take some specific action in the Middle East." It warned that the Arab states would act together. The government newspaper Al Gombouria also attacked the United States.

Contrast in Beliefs

The Egyptian press comment was in contrast to belief in the United Nations that blunt statements by the American, British and Turkish delegates had taken the crisis edge off the assembly debate on Syria.

Syria gave indications Monday night it thought the crisis far from over. It warned seven NATO powers that Turkey might seize the opportunity of forthcoming NATO maneuvers in southern Turkey to "commit aggressive action against Syria."

Syria sent identical notes to the United States, Italy, Greece, West Germany, Belgium, Holland and Denmark calling their attention to "the fact that Turkey might seize the opportunity" of the NATO maneuvers to "commit aggressive action against Syria."

Warns Turkey May Act

It said Turkey might act in belief the presence of NATO forces in the Turkish coastal areas near Syria "is to protect Turkish forces during their possible aggressive operations." The maneuvers run Oct. 31-Nov. 2.

In Cairo the Middle East News Agency reported one Turkish plane and two unidentified aircraft flew over north Syria on Monday and that a British made Canberra bomber flew toward Iraq.

The U.S. Embassy in Damascus meanwhile formally protested to Syrian authorities over the alleged seizure of one of their chief Syrian employes in Latakia nine days ago.

An embassy spokesman said Syrian authorities seized Mohammed Sukkar, chief clerk and interpreter at the Aleppo Consulate, in Latakia on Oct. 20 while he was there with Vice Consul Arthur Lowrie.

The spokesman termed the alleged arrests — third since mid-August — was "unjustifiable interference" in embassy work.

Moscow Continues Propaganda

Moscow Radio kept up its anti-American and anti-Turkish propaganda and demanded the United States halt its "imperialist schemes in the Middle East for the sake of universal peace."

Jerusalem dispatches indicated growing concern at Israeli relations with Syria, almost the first time Israel has indicated it might become embroiled in the current Turco-Syrian dispute.

Other Mideast developments:

Cairo: Egypt said it was sending its chief delegate to the Anglo-Egyptian economic talks back to Rome next week with instructions to break off negotiations unless Britain releases Egypt's frozen assets.

Supreme Court Hears Citizenship Appeals

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Supreme Court put in extra time today hearing arguments on important citizenship issues.

The justices, heading into an unusually busy term, took the unusual step of carrying over the first batch of arguments into a third week. Usually they recess after two weeks and work on opinions for a fortnight before hearing more cases.

Monday the court acted on a short list of appeals most of which were rejected. Then it turned to the pros and cons of this question: can Congress take away the citizenship of a native-born American?

Federal law now specifies a person may lose his citizenship if he votes in a foreign election; remains in a foreign country in wartime to evade military service; deserts the armed forces in wartime; or, if he has citizenship in two countries and serves in the armed forces of his other nation.

U.S. Solicitor General J. Lee Rankin contended Monday that the power to expatriate is "an inherent power of sovereignty."

But attorneys for one-time citizens who have lost their status argued that a desire to give up U.S. citizenship cannot be assumed from certain acts. They said expatriation must be wholly voluntary.

Some time before the end of the term in June the court will hand down a written opinion on the issue.

In Monday's orders the court also rejected a new appeal by Morton Sobell, convicted co-conspirator of atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, who were executed in 1953.

County Heart Committee Names New Secretary

The appointment of Edward J. Blend, 706 Chestnut St., Irwin, as executive secretary of the Westmoreland County Heart Committee, was announced today by Walter F. Berberich, M.D., president.

The Heart Committee has opened an office in room 612 of the First National Bank Building, Greensburg.

In his new position, Blend will co-ordinate the research, education and community service program of the Westmoreland County committee. The group is a committee of the Western Pennsylvania Heart Association and an affiliate of the American Heart Association.

In 1957, more than eight hundred thousand Americans died as a result of heart disease. This accounts for 53 per cent of all deaths in the United States.

The American Heart Association is a voluntary health agency with a nationally-co-ordinated program in which volunteer physicians, scientists, and laymen strive to reduce premature death and disability caused by heart and blood vessel disease.

In order to finance the fight against heart disease, the Heart Association conducts an annual Heart Fund campaign each February. Here in Westmoreland County, the drive will be climaxed by a door to door campaign on Heart Sunday, Feb. 23.

Four Hunters Die Of Heart Attacks

By UNITED PRESS

Four hunters have died of heart attacks since the opening of small game season in Pennsylvania Saturday.

Fred B. Shearer Sr., 68, a businessman from York, and Thomas Moran, 63, Philadelphia, were stricken Monday.

Shearer died while hunting near his farm in East Berlin in Adams County. Moran suffered his attack while hunting near Elverson, Chester County.

Twenty others have been wounded in accidents.

Dr. Mattison to Leave Post as Health Secretary

HARRISBURG (UP)—Dr. Berwyn F. Mattison will leave his $15,000-a-year post of state health secretary Nov. 18 to become executive secretary of the American Public Health Association in New York.

Mattison, 47, a member of Gov. George M. Leader's cabinet since the start of the Leader administration in 1955, announced his resignation Monday night. It was accepted with "deep regret" by the governor.

Leader said he would announce Mattison's successor "in the near future." Deputy Secretary Charles L. Wilbar Jr. becomes acting secretary.

A non-Pennsylvanian, Mattison joined the Leader administration after coming from Buffalo, N.Y., where he headed the Erie County Health Department. He is a native of Glen Falls, N.Y., and entered public health work with the New York State Health Department as assistant district state health officer in 1941.

He was health commissioner at Yonkers, N.Y. before he went to Buffalo.

Mattison said he was offered an opportunity "which I feel cannot be ignored" and praised the governor for supporting him in various phases of the state's health program.

Leader in turn said that Mattison did an "outstanding job" in Pennsylvania.

"I deeply regret the fact that Dr. Mattison is resigning," the governor said. "Yet this new job represents a challenge that he feels he cannot decline and certainly this is understandable."

Hagerstrand Dr. Heimplaetzer Dr. Pallone Kotch Kutska

A MAN FROM ESSEN VISITS MONESSEN — Dr. Fritz Heimplaetzer, educator from Essen, Germany, visited in Monessen yesterday. He was a guest of the Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon at Johnson's Restaurant. He is shown with Charles Hagerstrand, Chamber president; Dr. Joseph Pallone, superintendent of local public schools; Councilman John Kotch Jr., and George Kutska, staff representative of District 13, United Steelworkers (AFL-CIO.) He toured the city, Pittsburgh Steel Co. and schools.

German Educator Likes Monessen

Dr. Fritz Heimplaetzer, a German educator touring the United States, paid his first visit to Monessen yesterday and he found that "the countryside looked pretty familiar."

Dr. Heimplaetzer said the city bears a striking resemblance to his hometown of Essen, Germany, which also happens to be Monessen's namesake.

"The smoking chimneys and the steel mill with its blast furnaces reminded me of the picture I am accustomed to in my hometown," said the German educator. "And I found that Monessen faces much the same problems as does Essen."

Dr. Fritz Heimplaetzer is touring the country with a group of German educators in an effort to learn more about American industry. His tour included a trip to Pittsburgh yesterday and he requested that Monessen be added to his itinerary.

"My interest in Monessen dates back three years," recalled Dr. Heimplaetzer. "I was then a reporter with the Ruhr Nachirchten in Essen, and I wrote a feature about a newly arising contact between students in Essen and Monessen. I recall that the two cities also exchanged radio broadcasts."

Dr. Heimplaetzer was toured through the Pittsburgh Steel Company's Monessen plant by City Councilman John Kotch Jr.

"It was an exciting and enjoyable tour," said the German visitor. "I guess there is not a great difference in steel production in heavy industry. However I was impressed by the good mood of the workers I saw. It was pretty good indication that the working climate in this huge plant is a very good one. By the way, these workers are obviously the best paid steel workers in the world and good money helps quite a bit."

Dr. Heimplaetzer was lavish in his praise of Monessen High School. He said he hoped city students would continue to correspond with those in Germany.

"Despite different languages, people in Monessen and Essen aren't really so different," he observed.

Dr. Heimplaetzer had an opportunity to talk with municipal and school officials at a noon luncheon arranged by the Chamber of Commerce. He had words of praise for the Chamber, too.

Before continuing his trip to Washington, D. C., Dr. Heimplaetzer had this to say:

"The people of Monessen are warm and friendly. I will have much to say and write about your city when I return home. Thanks Monessen for a fine day with you."

Whither Zhukov?

FOR ALL the long-range significance of their experiments in space, the internal political and economic affairs of the Soviets still hold more interest for the immediate future. It is not too much to say, we believe, that such questions as what is happening to Marshal Zhukov are of more consequence than Sputnik.

The Zhukov business, like so much of the maneuvering within the small circle of Soviet rulers, is not yet fully understood. Because of the Kremlin's absolute control of the means of communication, we do not know for sure much more than they choose to tell.

The speculations of informed Americans at this point seem to agree that Marshal Zhukov's star is descending, probably because Khrushchev has decided it should.

If this speculation is accurate, the development is startling indeed. That is because the free world has been under the impression that Khrushchev's disposal of the Malenkov-Molotove-Kaganovich group some months ago was achieved in part through the cooperation of Marshal Zhukov and the Red Army.

But even this was only an impression supported by surface evidence. No one outside the Kremlin has really known to what extent Khrushchev is a creature of the Soviet military forces. And if the current hunches about Zhukov are at all close to the mark, our recent ideas about this are going to have to be revised.

At any rate, the plot thickens. There can be little doubt that, whatever actually is taking place, the heads which wear the crowns of power in Moscow rest most uneasily.

And it is in this realm, one suspects, rather than in outer space, that the future of our world is going to be decided. The developments of science certainly have a role to play. But this remains a world of human beings, and what they do in their relationships with each other, much more than what they do with their inventions, sets the patterns of history.

Clark's Record

U. S. SEN. Joseph S. Clark, of Pennsylvania, who has just concluded his first session of Congress since his election last year, says he is taking soundings around the state.

"This is the time," he says in his news letter, "for the citizens of Pennsylvania to tell their Senator what they expect of him during the second session of the 85th Congress."

We will not take the space here for a detailed analysis of Senator Clark's maiden session. But we would make the observation that the Senator seems to have mistaken the nature of the vote which sent him to Washington.

This was largely a bi-partisan vote — it had to be since Senator Clark is a Democrat in a predominantly Republican state which went overwhelmingly for President Eisenhower at the same time.

Yet Senator Clark has voted a strict New Deal-Fair Deal line on domestic matters, being one of a small handful of congressmen to earn a 100 per cent rating from the left-wing Americans for Democratic Action. And on foreign policy he has been a carping, partisan critic of the Eisenhower administration.

This newspaper was among those which supported Senator Clark last year. And while we knew he was a "liberal" and while we had no objection to that, we are frank to say that we did not expect him to join the radical fringe of Senate. Nor did he give the slightest indication to the voters during his campaign that this was his intention.

On the basis of his first session, we do not think Senator Clark is accurately representing the thinking either of Pennsylvania as a whole or of the people who made his election possible.

A Fine Contribution

THE ANNUAL membership campaign of the Monessen-Belle Vernon Civic Music Association has concluded with an enrollment of 829 members for this winter's concert season.

Again, this is somewhat short of the 1,000-seat capacity of the High School auditorium, but it is sufficient to give the community another very worthwhile season of music.

Not many people, including members of Civic Music, appreciate the tremendous effort which a comparatively few individuals put forth to make these programs possible. With no recompense other than the satisfaction of adding something good to the life of their community, these people work long and hard for days on end during the membership campaign. Except for this patient labor, the Monongahela Valley would have no regular opportunities to hear the great music of the great artists whom Civic Music brings to Monessen.

It is hardly safe to name names in such matters, but certainly a major share of the credit for this year's successful campaign would have to go to Mrs. Paul Latkanich, the president; Mrs. Willard Krasik and Mr. Thomas F. Preston, the chairman and co-chairman, and Mrs. Frank Ezerski Jr., the secretary.

Monessen, Belle Vernon and their neighboring communities are better places to live because of what these people and their associates have done.

Merry-Go-Round—

Teamwork on Satellite Is Lacking

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — This column recently disclosed that the Army has six satellites in a warehouse at the Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala., which it believes could have been launched well ahead of the Russian sputnik. They have been gathering cobwebs for six months. Three months ago the Budget Bureau, operating directly under the White House, actually sent auditors to Huntsville to make sure not one penny was spent by the Army on satellites.

Mr. Pearson

This column also revealed that the original 1954 satellite program, "Operation Orbiter," which used the Navy, the Army, and the Air Force, all working as a team, had been switched in July 1955 to "Operation Vanguard" and put solely under the Navy.

The Navy has an excellent man, John P. Hagen, in charge of this operation. But the Navy was the least experienced branch of the armed services to be given exclusive control of the satellite because the chief problem is boosting the satellite into outer space. This requires a missile or rocket of tremendous power, and the Army and Air Force have been well ahead in developing such a missile.

In fact, it was not until last week that the first stage of the missile for "Operation Vanguard" was finally got off the ground at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Why The Inefficiency?

The question which the American public is entitled to ask the Eisenhower administration, therefore, is — why the switching from different branches of the armed services? Why the inefficiency? Why the tragic delay which cost us untold loss of prestige throughout the world and definitely contributed to the toughening of Russian policy in the Near East?

Because of rigid censorship by the Eisenhower administration these answers are hard to get.

But the No. 1 answer is lack of direction at the top.

Under Roosevelt, the atomic bomb or "Manhattan Project" was placed under the direction of one man, Gen. Leslie Groves of the Army, now with Remington-Rand. Groves was not a scientist, but he was an administator. He was responsible directly to the commander-in-chief, Franklin Roosevelt. All the scientists worked under him. He placed Dr. Robert Oppenheimer directly in charge of building the bomb at Los Alamos.

Since then the Eisenhower administration has banished Oppenheimer from government work and lost the benefit of his talented brain. Other scientists, such as Dr. Edward Condon, former head of the Bureau of Standards, have also been intimidated or banished.

Under the much-publicized Eisenhower "team" there has been little actual teamwork. Each branch of the armed services competed against the other. Each went before Congress to demand more money, materials, and manpower. The present commander-in-chief who so emphasized team-play actually had no team-play. Though he spent his life in the military he did not act as commander over his own military.

That was the primary reason why our world leadership in science evaporated.

Business Bickering

Another reason was big business competition to get in on government contracts. This was highlighted by Col. John Nickerson, who charged that General Motors, Bell Telephone, and Douglas Aircraft — the first two companies once close to the Secretary of Defense and the Undersecretary of Defense — had pulled wires to put the intermediate range ballistic missile exclusively with the Air Force because the Army was working with Chrysler. The Nickerson courtmartial was hushed up before it could explore these charges, but it is a fact that General Motors, Bell Telephone, and Douglas developed the Air Force's Thor. And it is also a fact that the Army's Jupiter got into the air ahead of the Thor, yet Wilson wanted to shut down the Army's work altogether.

This may be one explanation of why the Budget Bureau sent auditors to Huntsville to stop all satellite work and why the six satellites were never launched. The Budget Bureau knew the Army was chafing under Wilson's order and presumably wanted to make sure some rebellious Army officer, perhaps another Colonel Nickerson, didn't jump the gun and launch a satellite as a publicity stunt.

If he had, American prestige in the world today would have been much better off.

In addition there was another factor which may have contributed to inefficiency and which will be discussed in a future column.

Calm Down, Boy!

From Washington—

Missile Action vs. Missile Words

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — However placid its surface atmosphere, the Eisenhower administration is not going to stand pat on the way the U.S. missile and outerspace programs have been going to date.

While the President has rejected any grandiose shift such as a "Manhattan Project" which in the judgment of nearly everyone is too late to be effective, my information is:

Mr. Drummond

That Mr. Eisenhower is stirring things up very considerably in order to keep things up.

That additional funds will be made available all along the line for research and development, though only within the present $38 billion defense budget.

That Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy's directive that he receive weekly reports on missiles and that any problem creating delay be brought directly to him is only a first step leading toward further and, if necessary, radical reorganization.

Secretary McElroy has the advantage of coming to his job without any past responsibility for what has gone wrong — or right — in the Pentagon. He has no vested interest in the way things have been done up to now and he has been told by the President to use an absolutely free hand to get on with the job.

My guess is that Mr. McElroy is the kind of man who needs very little encouragement to use a free hand. Unlike his predecessor, he has a highly developed appreciation of the role of the scientist and of basic research.

Won't Admit Mistakes

You rarely, if ever, find politicians, whether they be Sheriffs, Congressmen or President, who can bring themselves to admit publicly that they made a mistake. I can't recall an example off hand.

I suspect that if Mr. Eisenhower and the National Security Council had it to do over, they would have decided that the United States ought not be second — how far second we don't yet know — to launch an earth satellite. (I do know that White House Assistant Clarence Randall is doing the Administration and the country a disservice by trying to whistle away reality describing Sputnik and what it means in rocketry and science as a "silly bauble.")

The Administration now realizes — we are all fairly wise after the event — that a far greater sense of urgency, a higher priority and more centralized responsibility should have been put behind everything the government and industry are doing in missiles.

What is important is not so much what the government says about its missile and outer-space programs but what it does about them. Better that the Administration confess no mistakes of the past but do something about them than to berate itself — and others — and do little about it.

Action Is Needed

What is needed is very little talk and very large action.

Undoubtedly the country will be eager to hear President Eisenhower's report on defense and scientific matters which he will make in a series of speeches in the coming weeks. There are undoubtedly reassuring aspects of the headway which is being made. Everything hasn't gone wrong or stood still by any means. We may be in a position to close the gap more rapidly than many now think.

But the only convincing reassurance — to the American public and to the whole anxious non-Communist world — can come when the United States puts an operational ICBM into the air and a superior satellite, or possibly a manned satellite into outer space.

The time has come when events, not words, are most needed and will alone be adequate.

That is the mood which Vice President Nixon rightly conveyed in his San Francisco speech last week when he described Sputnik as disclosing "that the Soviet Union has developed a scientific and industrial capacity of great magnitude."

That is the mood which Secretary McElroy is generating at the top of the Defense Department: the scientists already have it.

If the Administration calls off the "silly bauble" talk, and devotes itself more to action than to words, it will run the least risk of a Congressional investigation running amuck in partisan politics.

Ike's Coattails May Get Real Test Soon

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—The riding qualities of President Eisenhower's coattails, now in question by some Republican politicians, soon will be substantially tested.

The test will come in New Jersey's Nov. 5 election of a governor. The administration is all-out to obtain the job for Republican Malcolm S. Forbes who opposed Gov. Robert B. Meyner.

Mr. Wilson

Chairman Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.) of the Republican National Congressional Campaign Committee is telling GOP candidates to beware of the presidential coattails. There are other Republican politicos who simply cite the record in support of their doubts about their riding qualities.

Forbes is not one of these. He was campaigning New Jersey last week in company of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, apparently pleased and grateful for the opportunity to run as an Ike-man. The administration effort for Forbes in New Jersey is without precedent in that state.

Needs Morale Boost

Nixon frankly told New Jersey voters that Forbes' election would boost Republican morale nationwide. The implication was, of course, that the party needs a morale boost which, apparently, it does.

The need became acute after Wisconsin's August election of Democrat William E. Proxmire to complete the U.S. Senate term of the late Republican Joseph R. McCarthy.

Proxmire defeated former Gov. Walter J. Kohler Jr., who proudly ran as a 100 per cent Eisenhower Republican. Wisconsin had not previously elected a Democratic senator since the Roosevelt landslide of 1932. Kohler's defeat was another bit of evidence supporting the belief of many practical politicians that the President's personal popularity is no great asset to Republican state and national candidates, and that the administration is incapable of attracting voters in sufficient numbers.

Ike Men Defeated

Kohler was not the first Ikeman to go down. Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado was a big man in the Eisenhower campaign of 1952 and in 1956 ran as an Ike-man for the Senate. Democrat John A. Carroll licked him.

Sen. James H. Duff was the big man of Pennsylvania Republican politics and in 1952 was a leader of the Eisenhower band. Democrat Joseph S. Clark defeated Duff's 1956 bid for re-election.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) who bolted the Republican Party in 1952 in protest against presidential nominee Eisenhower was the man the administration most wanted to defeat in last year's elections. The President sent then Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay to demolish Morse. But Morse licked McKay who had run as a 100 per cent Ike-man.

So, too, with Republican Gov. Arthur B. Langlie of Washington whom Eisenhower persuaded to oppose the re-election of Democratic Sen Warren G. Magnuson. Magnuson licked Langlie and another Ike-man was down.

Democrats meantime were winning governorships in such states as Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, and Oregon. It has been such as this that has put in question the riding qualities of the Eisenhower coattails.

The Woman's View—

Cookbook Author Is She, and Not a He

By VIVIAN SANDE

NEW YORK, (UP) — Audrey Alley Gorton is getting used to receiving mail addressed to Mr Audrey Alley Gorton because of a cookbook she has written.

"The Venison Book," published in September (The Stephen Greene Press, Brattleboro, Vt.) begins in the forest with chapters on how to shoot a deer and how to dress it in the woods. It ends with what Mrs Gorton at first thought would be the beginning and end of it, recipes for cooking deer meat and foods to serve with it.

Since the book is based, as she says in the text, "on the results of personal experience," many of her readers assume that Audrey Gorton is a hunter, a gourmet and a man.

During a visit to New York, Mrs. Gorton who is an attractive and very feminine-looking teacher of European literature and modern languages at Marlboro College in Vermont, said her interest in venison grew out of neither an interest in hunting nor gourmet cooking.

Purse, Tummy Empty

"It began in 1948 with an empty freezer, an empty tummy and an empty purse," she said.

"I don't hunt for sport. Only the thought of that succulent meat makes it possible for me to shoot a deer."

She also favors the economical advantages of shooting your own deer and eating it.

"Nowadays when you can store meat in a home freezer or in rented locker space there is no reason why the whole deer you bag should not end up on your table. You can have from 50 to 100 pounds of good meat for as little as $2.50 for a hunting license, and 10 cents for a shell," she said.

Mrs. Gorton, a former editor for the BBC and the Manchester Guardian, provides recipes for steaks and chops, roasts, curry, mincemeat, tongue, liver, stew, stroganoff or sauerbraten of venison, among others.

Venison Best Rare

"You can treat venison like beef, and a rare venison steak is best," she insists.

Mrs. Gorton says she began to collect recipes for her book because she could find so few in the cookbooks she researched, and because in the course of the years she found herself disagreeing with some of the age-old traditions of venison cookery.

Freezing, she believes, eliminates the necessity for hanging the meat. Removing the skin immediately and the fat before cooking (compensating with other fats during cooking) removes the gamey flavor some people object to and eliminates the necessity for high seasoning according to Mrs. Gorton.

At her college, Mrs. Gorton constantly was asked by young hunters how to bag a deer and how to prepare it. She decided to incorporate that information into the book, and did, with the help of her friend, Frederick J. Turner, hunter and professor of forestry at Marlboro College.

As Mrs. Gorton put it, the unique form of her book "grew backwards like a detective story."

Quotes from the News

By UNITED PRESS

SAN JOSE, Calif. — Navy Secretary Thomas S. Gates, in saying U.S. military forces must be able to win any limited war decisively enough to make any aggressor back from a nuclear war:

"...To win decisively in hot but limited war...to make it unthinkable to any aggressor to resort to thermonuclear war. This we need —no more, no less."

LAWRENCE, N.Y. — Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), in calling for a cabinet-rank civilian agency to coordinate government scientific and technical research:

"In the long run it may be beneficial to us that the Soviet hurled its satellite into space before we did. Nothing that I know of could have so shaken us out of our doldrums."

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Mrs. Grace Lorch, the white housewife who protected a Negro girl from white mobs in Little Rock, after being told to get a lawyer and return for Senate Internal Security Subcommittee questioning:

"When I get on the witness stand I am not going to recognize the committee as one which has any right to look into any anti-segregation organization in the South."

NEW YORK— Assistant District Attorney Alexander Herman, in asking that Anthony Coppola be held as a material witness in the slaying of underworld kingpin Albert Anastasia:

"If this man walks out of the courtroom, it very well may be the beginning of open warfare by the hoodlums in this city."

WASHINGTON — State Department press officer Lincoln White, in announcing the temporary reassignment of protocol officer Victor Purse, whose wife accepted a $3,000 auto from King Saud of Saudi Arabia:

"Mr. Purse's transfer from the protocol office was not related directly to the acceptance by his wife of an automobile as a gift. The department feels, however, that his failure to consult and inform his superiors...regarding the gift was an exercise of bad judgment."

Afternoon Games Idea Proves Popular

Surprisingly enough the idea of Monessen High playing its postponed games as afternoon contests has met with approval from most grid fans we've talked with concerning the contemplated procedure for getting the Brownsville, Johnstown and perhaps the Hempfield games "in" . . . The idea of a Thanksgiving Day game seems to catch the fancy of the fans most of all for we know for a fact that the Turkey Day game was a most popular valley sports event which many grid fans really miss . . . Whether the loss by Hempfield to Winkinsburg will cancel out this year's game with the Spartans remains to be worked out by the respective school heads as it was previously figured that that game would not be played if the Hempers were not in contention for the AA title.

* * *

Nello Tineri, popular Monessen sportsman, led a group of "Continental" grid fans to the Pitt-Notre Dame game Saturday, including Charles Richie, Joseph Yurchick, Rody Coccaria, Andy and Joe Sedory, John Salva and J. Kovalcik, G. Yursco, J. Lawrence, Donora . . . That list of fans leaving from Belle Vernon got goofed here last week due to a misplaced line of type and if we can locate the original list we'll make adjustments . . . Last week seemed to be a week of misplaced lines . . . One which was to have read "Pitt hasn't defeated Notre Dame at South Bend since 1952" came out as follows, "Pitt hasn't beaten Notre Dame since 1952." . . . Just to clear the record Pitt won in '52, the Irish in '53 and '54, no game in '55, Pitt won in '56 and now the ND win this year.

Charleroi Tabs Clairton Tops

Charleroi has placed the "top team" tag on Clairton after the 26-0 defeat handed the Cougars by the Bears Friday night, according to word out of the borough across the river . . . Coach Neil Brown of the Bears always seems to come up with that unbeatable combination of beef and terrific speed with a mixture of top-notch young material and just-enough experienced talent from the previous season . . . Charleroi missed Ron Cosner, classy first-string quarterback despite a neat job turned in by sub Gary Hogan.

* * *

Harry McGraw, active in the local Midget Football League as one of the keepers of the finances, was in Reading for a meeting of the NAACP over the weekend and while there was able to witness the Waynesburg College-Albright game, a thriller won by the Yellowjackets, 21-18 . . . Harry didn't get to see Eddie Galaski, local product, score any touchdowns as he (Eddie) has done in practically every game this season, although the former 'Hound end did play bang-up ball . . . Did you know that the outstanding lineman for the Baltimore Colts, Art Donovan, 265 pounds of gridiron massiveness, is the son of the famous fight referee Arthur Donovan, who was the third man in the ring for so many great fights.

Big Five Scoring Race Close

The Big Five Conference scoring race looks like its going to be closer this year than ever before . . . By this time in most seasons one player would be far out in front of the pace or if there was more than one in the lead he would have only one rival close enough (like last year's race between Monessen's Maurice Mathieu and Donora's Angie Dabiero) to catch him . . . This season only 13 points separate the leading point-maker (Joe Uhlman of Charleroi) and the sixth-placers, which include Ken Bronson and Carl Rattay of the Greyhounds . . . Of course the abbreviated schedule has had a lot to do with holding the scoring down . . . It'll jump considerably once the backlogged games are "picked up" in a couple of weeks.

Fraley Learns Judo Art From Jap 10-year-old

By OSCAR FRALEY

TOKYO (UP)— Fearless Fraley is a second cousin to a busted grain sack today because a 10-year-old as cute as a button and as gentle as a rattlesnake gave a lesson in "the way of gentleness."

This is the art of judo, as practiced in the Koodokan, the birthplace of the Japanese art of self defense. And from now on I wouldn't even shake hands with one of those chubby-faced infants the mamma-sans pack on their backs like reverse papooses.

It's six, two and even that the baby-san would flip me right over the mamma-san's head as she exclaimed fondly: "Ain't he the cutest thing?"

Chamber of Horrors

If you'll pass the arnica and fluff up the pillow on which I'll be sitting for a few days I'll tell you all about the chamber of horrors where a diabolical English teacher named Jigoro Kano started this judo dodge some 70 years ago. And about the little monster, ah, I mean tiny fellow, who used old Fearless as a stand-in for a bean bag.

The Koodokan is a huge concrete building which is a sort of sterilized Stillman's Gym where some 600 men, women and children daily learn the "gentle art of tripping, elbowing, kicking, choking and smashing windpipes with the flat, knifelike edge of the rigid hand.

In the dojo, or exercise hall, at almost any hour you can see up to 50 pairs of combatants going at it on the straw matting under which there are springs which wouldn't budge if you ran a Mack truck over them.

You only get to perform in this high vaulted room surrounded by a spectator's gallery after you have first learned how to fall in the novice room upstairs. This instructor throws the beginner up against the wall until he is jelly-like enough to bounce on his own volition.

Oriental Mayhem

The degree of dexterity one attains in this Oriental form of mayhem is attested by the color of the belt one earns the right to wear. In order they are white belts, blue, brown, black and then red and white and, finally, if you survive this long, the coveted red belt which attests that you could handle King Kong with your little pinky.

"You must try," said the guide, and before I knew it old Fearless was attired in a pair of canvas pajamas which is the costume worn when performing the rites of "the way of gentleness," it was one of the biggest mistakes of a life chock full of errors.

"I played it cozy — I thought. There was this little button about half as big as a minute and I suggested that it would be fun to see whether he could move this big, handsome, virile chunk of American manhood. Little Toshi bowed low, straightened up and moved gently in until he stood head high to my floating rib. He took a chubby fistful of my canvas lapel, did a two-step in which he turned his back and bent forward and old Fearless made like the man on the flying trapeze.

Frankly, if we had gone another round, I'd have murdered the little bum. We didn't though, because I couldn't straighten up when they got me on my feet again.

Midget League Tilts Tonight

Close Out Regular Season

Two interesting games are carded at the Monessen High Memorial Stadium tonight in the local Midget Football Leagues as the local loop closes out its regular season under the lights here tonight.

Frank-Lin and Jefferson go at it in the opener at 7 o'clock, 15 minutes earlier than usual with Vocational and Lincoln in the finale immediately following the first contest.

Jefferson has already clinched the 1957 championship but the other positions in the standings are in doubt. Lincoln currently holds second place with a 3-2 record, Frank-Lin next with a 2-3 mark, and Vocational seeking its first victory.

Defending Champs Lose

Ironically, Vocational is the defending champion but in this rebuilding year has had some tough breaks dropping one-touchdown and one-point contests.

Frank-Lin will be more than anxious to hand the Jeffs their first defeat of the season and spoil a perfect record for the champs while Vocational would like nothing better than to post its initial 1957 win at the expense of the Lincolns and avoid a shutout on the season chart.

Another highlight of tonight's action could be the setting of new scoring marks for the local league by Eric Crabtree of Jefferson who has already carved a niche for himself among the top point-makers in the league history.

Marshall Leads All Scoring in American Hockey

NEW YORK (UP)—Willie Marshall of Hershey tallied three goals and two assists for five points last week to maintain his lead in all three American Hockey League scoring departments.

The 25-year-old center now has a total of 18 points, five more than Cleveland's Jimmy Moore. Marshall's nine goals and nine assists are also league-leading marks.

Bill Sweeney, a rookie with Providence, and veteran Dunc Fisher of Hershey are tied for third place in total points with 12. Johnny McLellan of Cleveland is fifth with 11 points while four other players each has 10.

Eddie Shack of Providence, as fresh a freshman as the AHL has seen in many years, has registered 45 penalty minutes to hold on to his lead in this department.

Hershey's Gil Mayer has taken over the goaltending honors with an average of 2.20. He has allowed 11 goals in five games. Gerry McNeil of Rochester has recorded the only shutout to date.

Ruby Terrific in Page Loop Bowling

Steve Ruby rolled a terrific 570 for his team to pace all scorers in the Page Bowling League last night. Ruby also had a sparkling 212 single game.

Others in the high scoring bracket were Irish Flanagan with a 208-540 and Floyd Todd with a 208-514. Walter Troth, James Baker, Mike Prokopovich, Scotty Dreucci, Frank Watson, John Woods, George Zilka, and Sam Guerra also checked in with neat cards.

Standings — Stainless 20-4, Electric 16-8, No. 1 — 15-9, Galvanize 15-9, No. 2 11-13, Cold Roll 10-14, Supervisors 5-19 and Testing 4-20.

Last night's winners were Mechanical No. 2, Stainless, Supervisers and Electric.

Lights Sought for Ninth Street Park

Monessen City Softball League teams at a special meeting last night, initiated plans to contact certain organizations in the city to discuss the possibility of installing lights at Monessen City Park before next softball season.

Six members of the local league attended the meeting, each voicing their approval for the installation of the lights which would give the City of Monessen one of the most elaborate ball parks in the state.

The lights could undoubtedly be also used for baseball, giving the Mon Valley Baseball League its only "night" ball park. (Charleroi Stadium has lights but they are not used for baseball and the Stadium will shortly no longer be the home of the Charleroi entry).

The local softball loop ranks with the finest in any city in the area and the addition of lights would almost make Monessen the "Softball Capital" of the valley.

Secretary Emil Crisi of the local League, announced the details of last night's meeting this morning and will supply further information on the lights plan in the near future.

Rostraver Juniors In 'Parents' Night' Tilt Tomorrow

Coach Eddie Hogan of the Rostraver Junior High eleven will send his charges after Win No. 8 in a row in hosting South Huntingdon Junior High in a Junior High conference game tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at the Rostraver Stadium.

The South Huntingdon tilt has been rescheduled from Oct. 4, when it was postponed due to the flu epidemic.

A special "Parent's Night" show has been arranged for halftime of the game, featuring the senior high school band and the Junior high's marching girl Leopardettes.

Parents of the junior high gridders will be honored just as were the "Moms and Dads" of the high school team during the halftime show of the recent Bellmar-Rostraver game.

Another rescheduled game has Perryopolis Junior High battling the Little Leopards in an afternoon contest at 2:30 o'clock Monday, Nov. 4.

Hogan's defending champions of the local junior high grid conference show two wins this season, over Marion and Vernon, to add to the six chalked up last year in winning tht crown.

Maurice Mathieu Sidelined With Fractured Arm

Word has been received from Miami University that Maurice Mathieu, star Monessen halfback of last season, who paced the Big Six in scoring has been sidelined with a broken arm and possible dislocated shoulder.

He had been playing first team on the Miami Frosh eleven. The mishap occurred during a scrimmage with the varsity last week.

The report says that chances are he'll be out for the season.

To ease the disappointment of missing the remainder of the games, the University has invited Veronica Yursco, Mathieu's girlfriend, to attend the Homecoming activities on November 15 to 17.

Manderino, Palm Lead St. Cajetans

St. Cajetan Ladies League bowling saw St. Catherine and St. Monica topping St. Margaret and St. Lucy last night.

B. Manderino had the three-game high of 377 and shared the single high with C. Palm, a 145. Others among the leading scorers were I. Pasterick and P. Singel.

Standings — St. Monica, 3-0, St. Catherine 2-1, St. Margaret 1-2, St. Lucy 0-3.

Carrie Palm Again Paces Open Hearth

Ladies Open Hearth Bowling League action saw Carrie Palm again lead the scorers in the single and three-game categories with a 179 and a 448.

M. Bezuska also checked in with an over 400 score of 409 in the three-game series. Other top point-makers were S. Sommers, M. Opalinski, M. Koltash and D. Baron.

Urbanik Climbs In Big Five Loop Scoring Race

Donora's High School's classy fullback, Tom Urbanik, has jumped to second place in the Big Five Conference scoring race, just a point behind conference-leading Joe Uhlman of Charleroi.

Urbanik, who chalked up his sixth touchdown of the season against Brownsville Friday night now has 42 points to 43 for Uhlman who managed an extra point in a high-scoring tilt agains North Catholic. Uhlman was held scoreless against Clairton last week.

Uhlman's teammate Ron Cosner, who had held down second place in the standings with 38 points, dropped to third behind Urbanik. Cosner was on the injured list and did not play in the Clairton tilt.

Angie Dabiero, of Donora, jumped into a commanding position in the race with a TD against Brownsville to jump his season total to 30, tying him with Monessen's Ken Bronson and Carl Rattay and Charleroi's Ollie Payne. Bronson and Rattay naturally could not advance with Friday's game with Johnston postponed and no replacement found, for another week of idleness.

Two new scorers joined the list last week when Jimmy Penrod and Jim Sweeney of Monongahela each scored a touchdown against Redstone, their first of the year.

The complete list of scorers follows:

Local Juniors to Host Canonsburg Entry Tomorrow

Coach Al Romasco's Monessen Junior High grid team, currently rolling along with two victories and no losses in the only two games they've been able to play this season, host Canonsburg Junior High here tomorrow night.

Game time is set for 7:30 o'clock, at the Stadium. This will be the last game of the season on the regular schedule for the locals and will close the season unless some postponements are carded.

The locals have defeated Brownsville, 13-7 and snapped Charleroi's 20-game no - defeat streak with a 20-13 win last week. Games with Donora and Monongahela were called off due to the flu epidemic.

Other top games in the district find Rostraver battling South Huntingdon tomorrow night at Rostraver at 7:30 o'clock and Vernon and Marion in their annual battle at Marion at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The Marion-Vernon game is a postponed contest.

Joe Koltash High In Construction

Also among the high men were Frank Stancato, Al Gondos, Jim Woods, Frank Arnoldi and Emil Varga.

Standings — Vulcans 16-8, Freeport 15-9, Shatons 11-13, and Dandos 7-17.

Charleroi Has Won Five of Last Six Games in Series

Coach Armand Niccolai's Monessen High gridders will be out to snap a jinx in the form of the Charleroi Cougar at the Charleroi Stadium Friday night.

Past records show that the cross-river rivals have won five of the last six games played between the two schools, Monessen being able to win only the 1954 game since a 7-0 win in 1950. The '54 score was 20-6.

As far as coaching records go Coach Niccolai just missed tying Rab Currie in their personal series last year when Charleroi-cked out a 14-13 win. Last year's victory gave Currie a 6-4 nod over Nick.

Cougars Lead Series

Another factor in the current Charleroi mastery over the 'Hounds is the jumping of the all-time record to the Cougar's favor. The series now stands at 16 wins for the 'Hounds, 21 defeats and seven ties.

The top score in the long series was posted by the Greyhounds in 1949 when Jimmy Ralston and Company rolled to a 42-7 victory. Charleroi had held the top scoring honor prior to that game with a 41-0 win in 1936.

An odd point about that 1936 win was that the Cougars played Monessen twice that season copping the first game here by only 6-0 but running wild at Charleroi in the return match. The Cougars were WPIAL champions in 1936.

Since that 1949 runaway, the games have been fairly close with the 'Hounds winning in 1950 by 7-0, losing in 1951 by 26-12, in 1952 by 20-7, in 1953 by 19-6, then the 20-6 1954 victory, a 14-7 defeat in 1956 and the 14-13 loss last year in a game in which the locals lead 13-0 at halftime.

Nick and his lads hope to begin cracking that Cougar jinx Friday night when the neighboring foes meet for the 45th time in their traditional series.

WAJDA BOOTS IN FIVE

BOSTON (UP)— Hank Wajda, one of the top winning jockeys on the New England circuit this year, booted home five winners, four of them in a row, Monday at Suffolk Downs. Wajda scored on Richard Jr. ($7.60), Hell Raysor ($8.40), Noted ($9.80), Bama ($5.00) and Chac Rosett ($6.00).

Johnstown Game 'Off' for 1957

Monessen High School Principal Henry Furio announced this morning that Monessen's football picture has become a little more muddled.

Johnstown has informed the local school authorities that the Johnnies cannot compete here this season and will have to cancel the game with the Greyhounds. The two schools will renegotiate a home - and - home contract next season.

In the meantime efforts are being made to card a game with Brownsville on Nov. 28 and Hempfield on Nov. 23.

X-Ray Reveals Morrall Suffers Rib Separation

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback Earl Morrall participated in practice today after X rays revealed that a rib injury suffered against the Philadelphia Eagles was nothing more than a separation.

It was first feared that Morrall, injured on the last play Sunday against the Eagles, might have fractured a rib, but he will be at his usual post when the Steelers travel to Baltimore Sunday for an encounter with the Colts.

Coach Buddy Parker was concerned over the lack of an effective kicker for field goals and conversions. So far this season the Steelers have made good on only 6 out of 11 conversions and have missed 9 out of 10 field goal attempts.

Gary Glick, Jim Girard and Len Dawson, Parker's three booters, were expected to put in extra time this week in an effort to show improvement. But Parker said all three are near perfect in practice.

Even Steeler owner Art Rooney was concerned.

"As old as I am," he said, "I can kick better than that."

Lopez, 'Hutch' Top Pilots

Edge Out Richards, Fred Haney

NEW YORK (UP)—Fred Hutchinson and Al Lopez, nice guys who finished second, were chosen today as the United Press major league managers of the year for 1957.

The 38-year-old manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and the 49-year-old pilot of the Chicago White Sox were honored by two special committees of 24 baseball writers. In each case, the writers picked a manager who "did the most with his material" rather than a pennant-winner.

The National League committee selected Hutchinson over Fred Haney of the Milwaukee Braves, 16-7, with one vote for Bill Rigney of the New York Giants. The American League committee chose Lopez over Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles, 12-10, with two votes for Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees.

Hutchinson, in his second season with the Cardinals, led the Redbirds' surprising bid for the National League flag. Picked no better than fourth by most pre-season analysists and tabbed for the second-division by many, the Cardinals threatened the Braves all the way and were only 2½ games behind the front-runners on Sept. 15.

Lopez, taking over the White Sox after six years with the Cleveland Indians, led the club to its best finish since 1920. Obviously outmanned by the Yankees, the White Sox nevertheless carried the fight to the defending world champions.

"Winning this pennant caused me more worries than any other," said Stengel the night the Yankees clinched the pennant. "And the reason is that Lopez kept them hustling every minute of the pennant race."

Princeton Grid Coach Seen Facing Surgery

PRINCETON, N.J. (UP)—Charlie Caldwell, 56-year-old Princeton football coach, faced possible surgery today to correct a "lingering, deeply-rooted infection" that has placed him in "serious" condition.

Caldwell, college coach of the year took a turn for the worse. He has been on medical leave of absence since last Sept. 23.

"He has been unable to throw off the enervating effect of a lingering, deeply-rooted infection," said Dr. J. Mercer Rampona through the university Public Information Department. "At this time, in view of complications developing from this infection, it seems advisable to transfer him from his home to Princeton Hospital for possible surgery."

Authorities at the hospital refused to disclose the exact nature of the complications. Caldwell was hospitalized last summer for an ailment called "divertoulitis."

Caldwell guided Princeton to six successive "Big Three" championships from 1947 to 1952. His teams won 70 of 103 games and tied three for a .694 percentage over 11 seasons.

Colorado Coach Blames Crowd For Okie Loss

DENVER (UP)— Coach Dallas Ward charged Monday that a partisan crowd cost Colorado a touchdown against Oklahoma Saturday by deliberately drowning out the Colorado quarterback's signals.

With third down and two yards to go on the Oklahoma seven yard line in the third period, Ward said, the crowd set up a deafening din, reinforced by the thunder of a bass drum in the Oklahoma band.

"Quarterback Ralph Herbst signaled to the crowd with his arms for silence," Ward told the Buffalo Roundup Club, "but the partisan crowd yelled even louder. Herbst had noticed a big hole in Oklahoma's line and called a check signal (to change plays). He calls 'up two.' The center thought he had called 'hike' and lifted the ball.

"Herbst wasn't ready," Ward said, "and we were called for illegal procedure. That cost us a touchdown."

Colorado lost the game, 13-14.

When Oklahoma had trouble hearing signals, Ward said, the referee called time out. "And the public address announcer asked the crowd to be quiet. And there was quiet."

"Never in my life — and I've seen more than 400 football games —have I witnessed such a spectacle as I saw at Norman," he said.

Burdette Hero Again-At Home

SARASOTA, Fla. (UP) — Milwaukee pitcher Lew Burdette, still exhilarated over his World Series performance, played hero all over again Monday night for "hometown" folks who saved their celebration for his return.

Burdette, who whipped the New York Yankees three times in the series, was feted at a banquet. He spoke only briefly, but admitted he was still up in the air over the Braves' victory.

"I have had an awful funny feeling for about a month now," he confided.

Burdette, who moved his family here in 1954, was honored with a homecoming parade through the city and a ceremony at Payne Park in which he was presented a 75 horsepower cabin cruiser, a gold key to the city and a bronze plaque. The homecoming ended with a banquet Monday night.

The cabin cruiser was financed by donations from school children and local citizens.

Texas Aggies Press Okies for Top Spot

NEW YORK (UP)— Oklahoma remained on top in the United Press college football ratings by a slim five-point margin today but faced a new challenger in Texas A & M.

The Aggies, unbeaten and untied in their first six games this season, almost "stole" first place from the defending champion Sooners as they accumulated 296 points in the weekly balloting of the 35-man United Press board of coaches.

Oklahoma had to come from behind to edge Colorado, 14-13, for its 45th straight victory last Saturday and this "squeaker" almost cost the Sooners the lead. However, they still managed to pick up 17 first place votes and a total of 301 points.

Iowa, meanwhile, dropped from second to third place with 254 points, Auburn jumped from sixth to fourth with 227 points, and Notre Dame retained its hold on fifth place with 200 points.

Rounding out the top 10 teams in order were Michigan State (173) Duke (130), Army (86), Ohio State (49) and North Carolina State (42).

In battling Duke to a 14-14 tie last Saturday, North Carolina State vaulted from 14th to 10th place. The Wolfpack was the only newcomer to the top 10, replacing Mississippi, which dropped from ninth to a tie for 16th place following its 12-6 defeat by Arkansas.

Oregon, now the favorite to win the Pacific Coast Conference championship and a berth in the Rose Bowl, headed the second 10 group. Michigan, still in the running for the Big Ten Conference's bid to the Rose Bowl, was 12th. Navy and Arkansas were tied for 13th place, Tennessee was 15th, Mississippi shared 16th place with Texas and Colorado. Texas Western was 19th, and Tempe (Ariz.) State was bracketed with undefeated and untied Dartmouth for 20th.

DeMarco Favored In Welter 'Title' Battle Tonight

BOSTON (UP)— Ten-round Tony DeMarco, fretting more about the first round, and Virgil Akins, lights-out puncher turned cautious boxer, collide tonight in a 15-round welterweight "title" fight as muddled as their new styles.

Conditioned to go the distance by the most strenuous training sting of his career, DeMarco, the 25-year-old Boston boy was a 10 to 7 favorite to win tonight — if he gets past the first round.

His 29-year-old opponent from St. Louis ranks one-two with DeMarco as the hardest puncher in the division, but has been working on his left jab and boxing generally in training sessions here.

A controversy blew up when the Massachusetts Boxing Commission sanctioned this as a title fight, ostensibly in accord with a National Boxing Association mandate. Chief opposition has come from New York. Commissioner Julius Helfand, whose state is the only one not in the NBA.

Panthers Prep For Syracuse; Voted 3rd Best

PITTSBURGH (UP)— Coach Johnny Michelosen will step up drills today as he prepares his Pitt Panthers for their homecoming day tussle Saturday with Syracuse.

Michelosen excused the 23 players who played in the Notre Dame game from any hard work Monday. They drilled without pads.

Several players turned up with minor injuries but all except end Art Gob were expected to be ready for the Orange invasion. Gob has a badly bruised leg and was a questionable starter for Saturday's game.

Quarterback Bill Kaliden aggravated a bruised thigh, end Jim Zanos has a bruised calf, and guard Ed Michaels a slightly wrenched hip. Ron Kissel, a regular left tackle who missed the Irish clash, will be discharged from the hospital today. He was hospitalized last week with a back cold.

Pittsburgh was voted third place this week in the Lambert Trophy ratings, emblematic of Eastern football supremacy. Army was first, Navy second, and Penn State fourth.

Bing to Sell Buc Stock

LOS ANGELES (UP)—A spokesman for Bing Crosby said Monday the crooner probably would exercise his option to buy 6½ per cent of the stock of the Detroit Tigers after selling his interest in the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The spokesman said, however, no announcement could be made by Crosby Enterprises Inc., before discussions were held with Pittsburgh owners. Although the spokesman said nothing has been consummated at this time, the option "probably will be exercised."

In order to pick up the Detroit stock, Crosby would have to clear the way by selling his National League stock under Commissioner Ford Frick's ban on his ownership of more than a token share of the Tigers.

Crosby, wed last week to actress Kathy Grant, was unavailable for comment. His brother, Larry, said he "believed that was the case," in referring to an exercise of the option.

In Detroit, John E. Fetzer, radio television station owner and Tigers' board chairman, said Crosby was a member of the five-man group headed by Kenyon Brown, Wichita Falls., Tex., oilman, who owns stock.

The Detroit stock had been split into three equal parts in the $5,500,000 purchase of the Tigers a year ago.

Sporstmen's Corner—

'Meat Hungry' Hunters Already Mar Season

By far, most Pennsylvania hunters are good people. But among them, as in the ranks of sportsmen anywhere there is a cross-section of humanity. Included, unfortunately, are the "game hungry" and the cruel. Instances of these unsavory extremes cropped up on October 19, the first day of the 1957 grouse, turkey and squirrel season.

Take the revolting case of the two male deer that were blasted to death by fine shot in Lancaster County on opening day. One was a "button" buck. The other was a magnificent eight-point, whose hog-dressed weight on sclaes was 205 pounds.

Then there was the case of the "meat hungry" hunter in Lycoming County. A farmer placed a turkey in a four-foot woven wire enclosure. A "character" with a shotgun fired through the wire, killed the bird, climbed the fence, grabbed the "meat" and fled in his auto — but not before the farmer's wife obtained the numbers on the car license plate. A Game Protector next went into action, and the law breaker got his just desserts.

Unfortunately, in covering his district a Game Protector is not always quickly available. Sportsmen are coming to realize it is their responsibility to act when they see, or learn of, persons flagrantly or maliciously breaking the Game Law, or committing acts injurious to farmers. When more sportsmen swing into action they will bring about improved relations with landowners, there will be less posted land, and the goon-type shooters will learn it does not pay to steal game from honest hunters — or turkeys from friendly farmers.

Buck Roams—

Early in the afternoon of October 23, a fine four-point buck deer appeared in the residential district of the northern end of Harrisburg. City policemen and children attempted to drive the deer out of town, but the bewildered animal ran a zig-zag course, seldom toward the woods, one-half mile distant.

When the frightened, fatigued buck sought the protection of heavy shrubbery at the side of a home, the Game Commission office was called. An experienced wildlife officer held a conference with policemen at the scene. If the deer dashed onto the street there might be auto collisions and human casualties. If the driven animal should react true to form it would likely crash through plate glass into a home, cause damage to furniture and eventually have to be dispatched.

With reluctance the buck was therefore quickly killed. The carcass was later delivered to the Dauphin County home.

What Another Colleague of Parente's Thinks of Him!

Spielman said: "The Mayor has repeatedly slapped Labor in the face. He opposed the organizing of public workers in the City."

"The Mayor was directly responsible for passing the infamous Wage Tax. The Mayor has attempted to influence Union Members to vote for his hand-picked lieutenants for various union officers. The vicious hand of corrupt government reaches over anxiously for control of every group in society. Be on guard against this disgraceful maneuver."

"I shall start an investigation of the fast and furious spending at City Hall."

Monessen Political Action Committee (C.I.O.) representing 11 local unions and the right arm of labor refused to endorse Parente for Mayor in 1949. Why?

Labor Union men remember what Spielman said.

Brownies Hold Halloween Party Here Saturday

Girls of Brownie Troop 25 gathered at the Little House on Saturday afternoon for a Halloween party.

All of the girls came in masquerade costume and each was presented with a candy bar.

Games were played and the prize winners were Mary Fuga, Joyce McClain and Santo Alessio. A large number of other prizes were also given.

Luncheon was served by the leader, Mrs. Sue Ringstad, assistant leader, Lucille Coursin and the program aide, Linda Johnston.

Table appointments were highlighted by lighted jack-o-lanterns and Halloween figurines.

Catholics to Form Boy Scout Troop

Initial steps will be taken to form a Catholic Boy Scout Troop in Belle Vernon this evening at a meeting of men who have been asked to serve on the scout committee.

The Rev. David L. Fisher has called the session for 8 p. m. in the rectory.

Tax Collector Fight Will Feature N. B. V. Elections

Leroy Jones will be re-elected burgess of North Belle Vernon in the Nov. 5 General Election since he secured both the Democrat and Republican nominations in the May primaries.

However other contests loom to provide interest in the voting next Tuesday. Principal among these is the contest for tax collector between Raymond Dalfonso, Democrat, and Warren Williams, Republican. Williams won the Republican nomination over Harriet J. Wilkinson, who has served in that capacity for many years. At present neither Williams or Dalfonso holds public office.

Four councilmen will be chosen. William Mascara, Homer Zucconi and Charles Klisowski won the nominations on both tickets so actually the only contest is between Tony Stringhill, Democrat, and James Reed, Republican. Stringhill is currently on council.

The school director race also may prove interesting with two newcomers seeking a place on the board. Michael Yencsik will be Clifford Breakwell's running mate on the Democrat ticket against Dr. Harold Underwood and Lloyd Christopher on the Republican ticket. Breakwell and Underwood are incumbents, but neither of the others holds any office. Only two board seats will be vacated.

Edward Mobley, Democrat, opposes Austin Corwin, Republican, for justice of peace. Constance Culler is the judge of election candidate on both tickets and Alice Pender, Democrat, will be running against Eva Grace McConnell, Republican, for inspector of election.

North Belle Vernon residents will vote for three common pleas court judges. Edward G. Bauer, L. Alexander Sculco and David Weiss are Democrat candidates, and Robert Rial, Avra Pershing and Willis Topper are Republicans.

Earl S. Keim, Democrat, is opposing Wayne Donohue, Republican, for District Attorney; Leo Sukala, Democrat, against William F. Cox, Republican, for prothonotary; Howard M. Bricker, Democrat, against Robert Kunkle, Republican, for clerk of courts; Stephen D. Yoney, Democrat, against Joseph R. Hunter, Republican, coroner and Dora M. Dunn, Democrat, against Mrs. Margaret Henderson, Republican, for jury commissioner.

On Monday, Nov. 4, the women will sponsor a card party in the school rooms in the church basement. Mrs. Julia Kara and Sue Touche will be in charge and they will meet with members of their committee on Friday evening after the 7:30 p. m. mass to plan final details for the affair. The party is open to the general public.

The girls joined in a mummer parade after which each was presented with a prize.

Entertainment for the afternoon was provided by a trio composed of Susan Barger, Carol Touche and Tara Bickerton. A duet selection was presented by Wilma Jean Venneri and Adele Popelas.

Games were played and prizes were won by Janelle Williams, Barbara Sanino and Tara Bickerton.

Orange and black was the color scheme used in decorating the table where refreshments were served by Mrs. Olga Miller, leader, Mrs. Elmira Luce, co-leader, Mrs. Hazel Costella and Mrs. Rosalie While.

The Brownies were in complete charge of plans for the party.

The next troop meeting will be held on Saturday at noon.

Washington Twp. Lions in Party

The Washington Township Lions Club will sponsor a Halloween party in the Marion Junior High School gymnasium this evening for all the children of the township.

Festivities are scheduled to begin at 7 o'clock with a parade around the gym to determine the finest and funniest costumed guests.

Harry S. Muckle Jr. will direct the party program, and there will be treat for everyone who attends this annual event.

Ted Bishop will have charge of the party being arranged for club members on Thursday night at the Blue Top Hotel. Members and guests are asked to wear costumes and the party is scheduled to get underway at 9 p. m.

Gary Hughes of Mulberry St., Belle Vernon, who has been a patient in Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh, for the past few weeks has returned to his home.

Jeffrey Krett Honor Guest at Birthday Party

Jeffrey Kret, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Krett of 429 Green St., was honored at a party on Saturday afternoon at his home. The affair marked his first birthday anniversary, which he will observe tomorrow.

The home was decorated in keeping with the Halloween season, and all the little guests came in costume. All received prizes.

Halloween games were played and prizes were awarded to the winners. Luncheon was served along with a large decorated cake topped with one lighted candle. Each child present received a party hat and a lollipop.

Jeffrey was presented with many gifts, and pictures were taken during the festivities.

Attending along with the honored guest and his parents were his cousin, Billy Krett, Billy Lovell of Finleyville; Nancy and Doreen Sloboda of Charleroi; Becky and Donna Mutich, "Butch" Legg and Jamie Weir, all of Belle Vernon. Jamie, a cousin of Jeff, was observing her fourth birthday and she also had a large decorated cake.

The mothers of the children were present along with several other adults including Jeff's two great grandmothers, Mrs. John Anthony and Mrs. Emma Brightwell; his great grandfather, John Anthony; uncles and aunts, Isabel Johnston, Mrs. Florence Weir, Mr. and Mrs. William Krett of Long Branch, Mrs. Marie Anthony, Mr. and Mrs. John Sloboda, Tony Brightwell; and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Brightwell. His paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Krett Sr. live in Florida and could not be present.

Woman's Club to Change Meeting

Due to next Tuesday evening being Election Day the Belle Vernon Woman's Club will not meet until one week later on Nov. 12. They usually convene the first Tuesday of each month.

The Nov. 12 meeting will feature a trip to Beck's Charter Oaks in Greentree, Pittsburgh. The women will spend the day touring the buildings in this well known furniture mart and museum. They will stop for luncheon at the Carriage House, one of the buildings at the center, which has been converted to a restaurant.

Mrs. Thurman Reeves, telephone chairman, is taking reservations.

Camera Club in Special Awards

Awards for black and white prints were made when the Belle Vernon Camera Club met on Friday evening in the annex of the First Presbyterian Church on Main St.

Nestor Henrion was the first and second place winner in the mounted 16 by 20 prints. Joseph Martino and Al Troth tied for third place and Martino was the winner of an honorable mention.

Gerald Jackson won first place in the color slide showing and tied with John Dowalo for second place. Joseph Martino and Roscoe DeBusk tied for third and the honorable mention awards went to Troth and Dowalo.

Louis B. Mayer Is Dead

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Motion picture mogul Louis B. Mayer, immigrant son of an ironmonger who became America's highest paid executive, died early today from the lingering effects of severe anemia.

Mayer, who was 72, had been suffering from the blood disorder since early this year and had undergone several transfusions recently. The reaction was complicated by a kidney infection.

Louis B. Mayer

Death came at 3:35 a.m. e.s.t. in the UCLA Medical Center.

A rotund little man, Mayer—known to his intimates as "L.B."—was a one-man Horatio Alger story, starting as a seagoing junkman at the age of 14 and rising to earn a salary of $1,296,503 in 1937, one of the largest individual paychecks ever reported by the U.S. Treasury Department.

At the height of his career as movie-maker and race horse owner, Mayer was acknowledged as the most powerful man in Hollywood. As boss of Metro-Goldyn-Mayer studios, the world's largest film factory, his merest whim was law to thousands and the elite of movietown respected his judgment.

He resigned from MGM in 1951 and in recent years had worked as an independent producer while he waged a behind-the-scenes battle to regain control of the vast studio property at nearby Culver City through the directorship of its parent company, Loews Inc. There had been some critics who complained he failed to keep pace with the entertainment times.

He was born Louis Burt Mayer in Minsk, Russia, July 4, 1885, the son of Jacob Mayer and Sarah Meltzer Mayer. When he was two years old, his parents migrated to Canada's New Brunswick Province.

Silence Golden

CHICAGO (UP) — Adventure came to a Chicago policeman who complained his 21 years on the force were uneventful. William Smith was bitten on the finger when he tried to shoo away a squirrel that was "blocking the sidewalk."

Class Book Is Rated 'Excellent'

The 1957 La Vie, senior class annual at the Pennsylvania State University, has received an "excellent" rating in the annual judging by the National School Yearbook Association, Columbia, Mo.

Judges described the book as "a very beautiful book, certainly one of the prettiest in the country" as they scored it with a "strong A".

The book was edited by William D. McCann, of Hershey, who was a pre-medical student, and James M. Mullen, of (127 Central Sq.) Pittsburgh, who was graduated in applied art.

Cold Snap to Lift

LAKELAND, Fla. (UP)—Weathermen said Florida should begin warming up today from an early season cold wave that sent temperatures plunging to record October lows throughout the Sunshine State. The cold snap struck early Monday morning, warming only slightly by daybreak today. Frost dotted low ground spots throughout the northern districts and interior central sections, but caused little crop damage since farmers managed to protect the few crops exposed.

Goes One Better

KEOKUK, Iowa (UP) — Police wouldn't have cared if gas station attendant Duane Gray, 21, had just serviced a car belonging to Charles Hasper. But they said Gray then stole $129 from the station cash register, ordered Hasper out of his car and drove off.

Blast Furnace Christened at Fairless Works

FAIRLESS HILLS, Pa. (UP)—Patricia Fairless, 7, granddaughter of former U.S. Steel Corp. board chairman Benjamin F. Fairless, christened a new blast furnace, named in her honor, at the steel company's Fairless Works yesterday.

Patricia and her grandfather presided at the traditional ceremonies held for the lighting of a new furnace. Civic and company leaders attended.

The new blast furnace, the third at the plant, will increase iron production there by 50 per cent. The first furnace, placed in operation in 1952, is named Nancy for Fairless' eldest daughter, and the second, which began operation several months later, is named Hazel for Mrs. Fairless.

Blast furnaces traditionally are given female names.

Church Group Holds Meeting Here Last Week

The World Friendship Circle of Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church met last week for the regular monthly meeting. Mrs. Evelyn Antoszyk was the leader, using as her topic, "Great Words of Our Faith."

The chief purpose of this topic was to discover what six great words mean according to Lutheran theology. Defining and understanding these words is basic to the Lutheran's faith, and this study was aimed at helping each member know better what they as Lutherans believe, and why they believe it.

The following had a part in the program: Grace — Mrs. Louise Ulander; Faith — Mrs. Sophia Rieser; Justification — Mrs. Audrey Myers; Sanctification — Mrs. Kathryn Johnson; The Word — Miss Jean Rak; and Sacrament — Mrs. Wanda Calhoun.

Mrs. Dorothy Zumbro, president, presided at the business session. A box of hand-made articles will be sent from the group to the Women's Auxiliary of Passavant Hospital for their annual bazaar.

A joint book review will be held at Hope Memorial Lutheran Church in Smithton on November 6. Members are asked to be at the church ready to leave at 7:15 p. m. that evening.

Lunch was served to the seventeen members present by Miss Geraldine Monath and Mrs. Louise Ulander.

Ends in Death

TACOMA, Wash. (UP)—A man driving to pick up his wife at a hospital struck and killed her with his car Monday as she walked toward him. Madigan Army Hospital spokesman said Harlan J. Stone accidentally stepped on the gas pedal instead of the brakes as Mrs. Stone, 52, moved in front of the auto to enter on the other side. Mrs. Stone, who had accompanied her daughter to the hospital, died shortly afterwards of head injuries.

WATCHING MANEUVERS—In Tehran, visiting King Feisal of Iraq (left) and Iran's Shah Riza Pahlevi (middle) watch military maneuvers staged for Feisal by Iran's sixth army corps. That unit probably will be Iran's contribution to the Baghdad pact defense forces.

Cancer Society Warns Of 'Quackery' Danger

NEW YORK (UP)—The American Cancer Society, reporting on the dangers of cancer quackery, said today "some 75,000 people died of cancer last year who could have been saved if they had consulted in time and stayed with a competent physician."

The report, made public at the society's annual meeting, said patients are led to seek treatment from quacks by a variety of unfounded fears which must be attacked by increased educational campaigns. It said the public must be told again and again that 50 per cent of all cancers are curable if treated promptly and competently.

"The cancer quacks are clever people, with millions of dollars at their disposal (taken from their unsuspecting victims) with which to perpetrate and perpetuate their frauds," the report said. Their claims of "cures" have been shown to be "either fraudulent or premature," the society said.

Duke Report Cited

"The seriousness of the quack problem is indicated in a recent report of medical doctors at Duke University Medical School," the report said.

"Two years ago the doctors reported that upon completion of a study of 64 cases referred to their hospital after treatment by quacks, a total of 27 who were lost might have been saved if they had been treated earlier. Ten who were saved necessarily underwent much more severe and radical treatment than would have been needed it it had been started earlier."

The report said it was not always easy to recognize a cancer charlatan. "At one end of the quack spectrum are members of the medical profession who are simply misguided or uninformed on cancer therapy. At the other end are the ghouls who operate assembly line clinics, using methods they know to be useless and charging exorbitant fees. The individual gross annual income of some of the latter is in excess of a million dollars; the harm they do to curable cases is incalculable."

List Warning Signs

The society said some things should, however, give warning to a patient that he is dealing with a quack: secrecy regarding the method of treatment or insistence it is available nowhere else; support of claims by advertising and testimonials rather than reports in reputable scientific journals; discouragement of consultation with reputable local physicians; a claim of persecution by the "medical trust" or "organized medicine."

The report said that sometimes the quack cures have been supported by well-known persons who are, nevertheless, not qualified judges. In other instances they are supported by sensation-type magazines which are willing to run speculative articles on new "theories" of cancer treatment.

Leader's Program For Education To Be Reviewed

HARRISBURG (UP)—The governor's committee for higher education will review and redraft its recommendations rebuffed by the recent Legislature with an eye toward putting "all possible momentum" behind the program.

The committee decided to analyze its proposals at a meeting Monday after Gov. George M. Leader asked that the recommendations be brought up to date for consideration by the 1959 Legislature.

A committee drafted proposal for college scholarships, community colleges and student loans to be possibly financed by a one cent soft drink tax was pigeonholed by General Assembly Republican leaders as "bordering on the welfare state."

Gov. Leader said the launching of the Russian earth satellite should spur development of a higher education program "at this strategic time."

"It is essential to have a commission which is able to work in a nonpolitical atmosphere, and I strongly urge you to set your sights toward reworking and reshaping this program for consideration by the next General Assembly," Leader told the committee.

The committee said it would confer with numerous state educators for suggestions and meet for a two-day session Dec. 2-3.

Church Leader Pledges Support To Break Tyranny

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa. (UP)—A Lutheran leader said Monday the "church stands ready to support with moral strength those minorities who are trying to break the rule of tyranny."

The Rev. Dr. Oscar A. Benson, president of the Augustana Lutheran Church, said Christians must face the revolutionary forces of the times and meet problems realistically. He spoke to the Greensburg Conference of the Pittsburgh Synod of the United Lutheran Church.

"The gospel is therapeutic of human and social ailments because through individual lives, consecrated and dedicated, we are willing to find a better way of living," Dr. Benson told the 100 pastors and lay delegates.

Dr. Benson, turning to the proposed merger of Lutheran groups, said a study of the problems of union is necessary "because any group must know its weaknesses before it can grow in strength." He added that Lutheran churches should capitalize on the things they have in common.

Johnstown Area Milk Producers Ask Price Boost

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (UP)—Producers in the Johnstown-Altoona marketing area have asked the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission to boost retail milk prices.

Farmers and farm agents testified here Monday in support of a price increase, which would add up to 1½ cents per quart at retail for milk. The Johnstown-Altoona area covers 15 counties.

Dr. James E. Honan of the Interstate Milk Producers Co-Op, and Bedford County Farm Agent John H. Holbert testified. Honan outlined his group's proposal for the increase, while Holbert said the price boost was needed to offset last summer's losses brought on by drought conditions.

Dealers requested an additional one-half cent per quart to offset higher costs of labor, materials and supplies. The farmers asked for 40-cents more per hundredweight, equivalent to one cent per quart.

The current price of milk home delivered in Area 9 is 24.5 cents for regular and 25.5 cents for homogenized. Store prices are one cent lower.

Armstrong Cork Earnings Report

LANCASTER, Pa. (UP)—Armstrong Cork Co. today reported its net sales for the first nine months of 1957 were estimated at $185,658,000, and net earnings after federal taxes at $8,428,000.

Company president C. J. Backstrand said this was equivalent to $1.60 per share on common stock.

He said this compares with net sales of $185,700,000 and net earnings of $9,825,000, equivalent to $1.89 per share on common stock, for the first nine months of 1956.

Backstrand pointed out that "earnings were reduced by rising costs, particularly for materials, freight charges, and wages and salaries."

Flu Death Toll Near 430 Now

By UNITED PRESS

Deaths from flu and its complications approached the 430 mark today, and an Illinois health official investigated the possibility some flu fatalities may have been caused by viral encephalitis.

A United Press survey since the first outbreak of Asian flu in the United States last summer showed 421 deaths caused by flu and its various complications.

New York State had the highest fatality rate with 126 deaths. Pennsylvania followed with 78 deaths, Michigan 37, California 31, Illinois and Louisiana 21 each, Iowa 15, Ohio 14, Wisconsin 12, Utah 11, Colorado 10, Hawaii 9, Connecticut 7, Kentucky and Indiana 6 each, Washington 4, New Jersey and Tennessee 3 each, and 1 each in Arizona, Maine, Missouri, Minnesota, Oklahoma, Oregon, and the District of Columbia.

Dr. Norman J. Rose, assistant deputy director of the Division of Preventive Medicine in the Illinois Department of Public Health, said one of the fatal complications might be influenza viral encephalitis.

Rose said laboratory tests are being conducted in "three or four" cases to determine if death was caused by viral encephalities.

Encephalitis is a form of sleeping sickness characterized by an inflamation of the brain lining.

Most of the deaths blamed on the current flu outbreak have been caused by pneumonia, a frequent complication of influenza. However, U.S. Public Health authorities said there was evidence some of the fatalities were caused by the Asian flu virus itself.

Flu outbreaks appeared to be on the wane in some hard hit states, but new epidemics were reported in other areas.

School officials in Cleveland, Ohio, reported the flu situation "very much improved." Flu also appeared to be tapering off in Indiana with the Evansville area the only section still feeling the full effect of the flu outbreak.

However, in Wisconsin, where an epidemic hit Milwaukee, health officials said the flu was shifting its force from cities to rural areas. Health authorities said 86,682 persons have been stricken with influenza since last month.

Claims Fewer Mental Patients

PITTSBURGH (UP)—State Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro said Monday night that "for the first time in 12 years, the mental patient population is going down in Pennsylvania state institutions."

Shapiro, in a speech to a Mt. Lebanon Presbyterian Church group, said his department was spending at the rate of 15 million dollars more for mental health than was allocated by the Legislature.

"We are now spending at the rate of $1.25 per patient per day, or 153 million dollars," he said. "The Legislature has appropriated 138 million, but we will not let the standards go down in any hospital for anything.

"We visualize at the end of 10 years an adult population of 30,000 i mental hospitals. This means reducing the institutional census by a thousand patients every year as we go on."

Shapiro emphasized that the aim of his department was to make "taxpayers rather than tax burdens" out of patients. He warned that "the dependent and neglected child of today is the mental defective of tomorrow."

Rogers Is An Asset To GOP

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP)—When 11-year old Doug Rogers got home from school last Thursday, he found a stack of newspaper stories and editorials which his mother had clipped for the family scrapbook.

They all concerned a fellow named William P. Rogers, who had just been named President Eisenhower's attorney general.

Doug postponed his customary after-school trip to the refrigerator and sat down on the sofa to read the clippings. After half an hour, he burst wide-eyed into the kitchen and exclaimed.

"Gee, mom, I never knew dad was THAT good!"

Rogers finds this story highly amusing, which tells you one important fact about the new attorney general. He's a man who learned long ago not to take himself too seriously.

His friendly, unassuming manner is the second thing you notice when you meet him. The first is that he will raise the photogenic quality of the cabinet by several notches.

Has The Looks

Rogers is 44, but looks 10 years younger. Lean, blond - haired, broad-shouldered and six feet tall, he could easily qualify as the Republican answer to Democratic Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Rogers has several other assets which should stand him in good stead in the upper echelons of political life.

He is a close personal friend of Vice President Richard M. Nixon. He has warm ties with important senators of both parties, dating back to his three years of service as chief counsel of the Senate Investigating Committee which turned up the deep freeze and five percenter scandals. And he is a former protege of Thomas E. Dewey, under whom he served as an assistant district attorney in Dewey's gangbusting days

Since Rogers had an important hand in shaping Justice Department policies under retiring Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr, there is no reason to expect radical changes in the department's approach to such problems as school integration, anti-trust law enforcement, and civil rights.

But there are two areas, at least, in which the new attorney general has strong ideas of his own, which are likely to be reflected rather quickly in department policy.

As a Senate investigator, Rogers won a reputation for fairness and scrupulous non-partisanship. He is determined the Justice Department have the same reputation under his leadership.

"It is very important," he said in an interview, "that the public have complete confidence the laws are being enforced fairly, without regard to any partisan political considerations."

Alumni Fund Drive Planned

Chairmen for the 1958 Alumni Fund of the Pennsylvania State University will meet at University Park on Friday and Saturday to make plans for the program next year.

The 1957 Fund, which at present amounts to nearly $150,000 with more than 7,900 contributors, will continue until Dec. 31.

The conference here this weekend will be conducted by Robert W. Ostermayer, of Clairton, president of the Pennsylvania Industrial Chemical Corporation, who has been named general chairman of the 1958 Fund, succeeding George S. Rose, of New York, N.Y., secretary of the American Iron and Steel Institute and chairman of the 1956 and 1957 Funds.

J. Jay Gerber, of Chicago, Ill., former vice-president for development of Northwestern University and now a consultant to various colleges and universities, will speak at the Friday night dinner.

The program also includes a trip on Friday afternoon to nearby Stone Valley where the construction of a dam, one of the approved projects of the Fund, will provide a vast recreation area.

On Saturday morning, chairmen will meet in workshop sessions with the deans and other representatives of the various colleges.

Amnesty Proclaimed

About 300 rebel tribesmen, including some of the head-hunting Nagas serving sentences for murdering other natives, were expected to benefit from the decree.

U. S. Satellite Signal Already Broadcasted

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP) — The signal that one day will emanate from the American earth satellite has been tested and a recording of it is being broadcast throughout this area.

The signal has been heard once an hour, without identification, since Friday by listeners of Cleveland radio station WERE. Today, the series of beeps, bleeps and bloops was identified by the station as coming from the same radio unit which will keep scientists informed when Project Vanguard actually launches the American satellite.

Richard M. Klaus, vice president of WERE, said the American satellite's "voice" will be transmitted on a continuous 108 megacycle band.

The "new sound" came from a minitrack radio transmitter which will relay information from the orbiting satellite to scientists on the ground. The radio was tested recently in an Aerobee-Hi rocket launched at White Sands.

The local station was the nation's first independent radio outlet to broadcast the sound of Sputnik when the Russian satellite made its first orbits around the earth earlier this month. Klaus said his station broadcast the voice of Sputnik because "it was not only a vital news story, but also because it was a real scientific achievement. However, we felt that American scientific efforts were being minimized."

Klaus said his station explained its views to the Department of Defense and Chief Engineer Harry Dennis obtained from the Office of Naval Research a tape recording of the test flight of the radio unit.

The Defense Department disclosed earlier this month Klaus said, that "the pattern of the antenna will be fan-shaped with the axis of the beam pointed to the zenith and the plane of the fan along the north-south plane. At satellite heights the beam will be several hundred miles wide. In this way a chain of stations distributed roughly up and down North and South America can intercept the satellite at each passage."

Klaus said his station had violated no security regulations in obtaining and airing the voice of the American satellite.

"The information was there," he added. "We merely thought of asking for it."

He said, however, the preview was "secondary to crediting our own country's scientific efforts."

Special Space Dog Barks into Red Microphone

LONDON (UP)—A dog named Kudryavka barked into a radio Msocow microphone Sunday night. The announcer said it was the "voice of one of the first space travelers."

The broadcast, monitored here, said Kudryavka's flights in rockets will enable the Soviet Union to put animals up in an earth satellite "in the near future."

"Special instruments will register heart beating, respiration and any possible changes in the organism of the animals," the commentator said.

Soviet scientists have said previously that such animals would be expendable. They could not be brought back to earth as dogs sent up in rockets have.

Moscow Radio said Kudryavka was "quite used" to space travel now.

"At a word, Kudryavka obediently gets into the diving suit... In a few minutes time a special rocket will shoot her up into space beyond the clouds and from there the dog will come down safely by parachute as she has already done several times..."

Warns of X-rays

WASHINGTON (UP) — Medical experts warn parents not to insist on x-rays for infants and children unless absolutely necessary. One expert said some patients now ask doctors for x-rays "just as they have been asking for a shot of penicillin for a cold."

Breaking in Period

CAMPBELLSPORT, Wis. (UP) —Proprietor Gino Scudella complained to police that just after an open house at his bowling alley Monday, burglars broke open his safe and took more than $1,400.

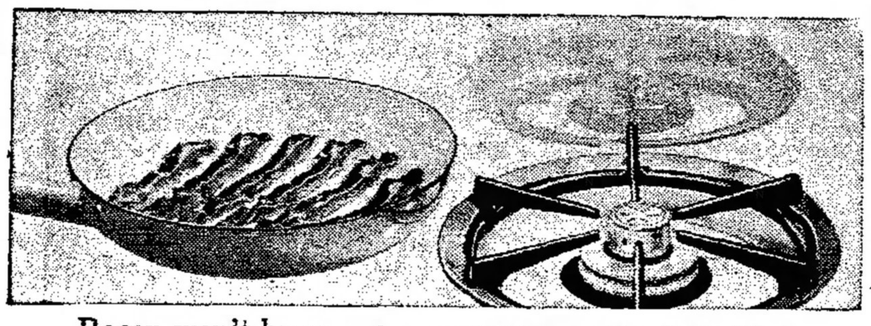
NO BOILOVERS! NO SCORCHING! NO CURDLING!

with a
Burner-with-a-Brain GAS Range!



Bacon won't burn on the new GAS Burner with a Brain. Why? Because when you set the temperature, there's an automatic "sensing" control that simply won't let the food get any hotter.

Mashed potatoes stay warm without drying out. You merely set the dial to a keep-warm temperature. When potatoes reach just the right heat, the automatic burner turns the flame down. If they start to cool off, it turns the flame up. 50 minutes later, your potatoes are still soft and creamy!

Deep-fried food won't get soggy. The secret of perfect deep-frying is having the temperature of the fat just right. With the new GAS Burner with a Brain, there's no guesswork, no need to buy a separate deep-fryer—just dial the right cooking temperature. Fried foods come out golden crisp outside, deliciously tender inside!

Cream sauces won't curdle. Icings and sauces can't overcook because they don't overheat when you set the correct temperature. You can even heat milk with no risk of curdling or boilover.

(PART 1)

★ COST OF LIVING

For 15 straight months the cost of living has broken the all-time record every month. Highest cost of living index in the history of the United States, and yet we have the lowest farm income.

EXAMPLE: Since January, 1953

			Cost of Buying a Home
Mortgage Interest	UP 30%	★	1953	1957

Transportation	UP 20%	★	Monthly Payment
Auto Repairs	UP 15%	★	(Over 20 yrs.)	$ 91.06 $ 106.58
Rent	UP 12%	★

While Your Costs Go Up – Commercial Bank Net Profits Rise 15% to An All-Time High

★ SPUTNIK

The last Democratic Administration budget was $262 billion. The present Republican Administration is spending $339 billion . . . AN ALL-TIME HIGH . . FOR WHAT?

Highest interest rates in history . . . Highest corporate profits in history. $40 Billion spent for defense with no advertising for bids, and yet this country has no satellite.

Flash – (Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, October 21 – Page 1)

Wave after wave of heavy selling battered the stock market today, slashing prices $1 to $6 a share. There was news of layoffs, production cutbacks and the steel operating rate fell below 80%.

Says Nation on Way To 'Rental Economy'

By ALFRED LEECH

CHICAGO (UP) — Joseph J. Thursh, marketing and merchandising expert, says the nation is heading toward a rental economy."

"There's a revolution coming in our distribution system," said Thursh, vice president of Design Dynamics. He summed it up this way:

—Industry's biggest problem is moving the goods it produces.

—In an age of gadgets and mass production installment credit has gone about as far as it can go.

—Consumers will have to rent instead of buy to consume the flow of goods from the nation's factories.

Pride of ownership has become a curse," Thursh said.

"It's an economic fetish, and we'll have to get rid of it."

Actually, he said, "our whole concept of ownership is false."

"If a man buys a car and takes 30 months to pay, he doesn't really own it until the final payment," Thursh said. "Then, the chances are he's ready to trade it in and go into debt again for a new one.

"Is that much different from renting?"

Thursh said the "rental revolution" already is on the march.

"The automobile rental business, for example, has tripled in the last six years," he said. "Last year 15,000,000 consumers rented cars. And they shelled out 350 million dollars in gross revenues."

Thursh said companies have found it more economical to rent fleets of cars, trucks and other heavy equipment rather than tying their capital up in ownership of items which become obsolete in a few years.

Consumers Save

"The leasing agency has greater purchasing power," Thursh said. "It can save on the purchase price by buying at the factory in quantity. It also saves on financing, insurance and maintenance, and these savings are passed on to the consumers."

Thursh said the switch from ownership to control of goods will benefit the individual consumer just as it has large firms.

"The time will come," he said, "when most of us will rent our cars and our major appliances.

"This will widen the area of what we can afford, and it will apply to all income levels.

"Instead of confining himself to the limited sphere of what he can own, the consumer can broaden his living in terms of control.

"In other words, he will live better for less money."

Storage Place For Your Silver

A special storage place for your precious silver is incorporated into the top of a drop leaf table. Unlike some other drawer-type trays, this one is completely removable for convenience when you are using your silver. When not in use, the tray is stored on a shelf underneath the table top.

SALLY'S SALLIES

"Excuse my looks, dear; I just came from the beauty parlor."

Freshen Living Room

More and more these days, entertaining is being done at home. When your guests arrive, does your living room put its best foot forward? It should. Your guests can quickly see, by the way you live, what kind of a person you are.

In these days of television viewing, your living room receives much more abuse than it used to. It is no longer the formal "guest parlor." It is clearly what its name implies — a room to be lived in. And it probably shows the effects of having been lived in.

Hours of sitting and watching television have probably taken a toll on your sofa and chairs. The cushions may be sagging and the upholstery may be quite frayed. And perhaps you can even see a path worn in the carpet between the sofa and the television set. Remember all the times you walk back and forth to change channels.

Tables, too, may be the worse for TV wear. You've used them for serving quick snacks while watching a favorite program. Stains, cigarette burns, and rings from beverage glasses do not present an attractive appearance.

It doesn't take much to spruce up your living room and give it a bright, fresh look. Examine your way of living and replace the things which have had too much wear with new things which will fill your needs.

Traffic Hearing Set for Meadville

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Highways Department will hold a public hearing in Meadville Nov. 4 to determine the economic effect of improvement of 7.17 miles of Traffic Route 77 between Blooming Valley and New Richmond.

The project consists of widening and resurfacing of existing roadway and "some new construction," the department said. The hearing will be held at the request of persons and places affected by the project, in accordance with federal law.

Black Notes on Fashion Scene

There's a bonanza of black furs — for coats, dresses, suits and accessories.

Coats star in this midnight shade with evening costumes following closely.

White and red glow brightly in striking plaids, stripes and tweeds.

'burn' against black's deep background.

Blue lends a spark to dark, dark blue — in shades from sapphire through copen to royal blues.

In dresses, silk and rayon crepe are favored for black white wool and nylon broadcloth are the chosen fabrics in sportswear.

Steel Business Is Sounder, Experts Say

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)—Steel Magazine reported today that the steel business is sounder than the ingot production rate indicates because producers have been using part of ingot production to build stockpiles of semi-finished steel.

The metal - working magazine said the stocks are used for quick delivery of finished steel.

In pointing out the situation, the magazine said that in the week ending Oct. 27, the ingot rate declined 1.5 points, lowering the national average to 79.5 per cent of capacity while sales of steel held about steady. The yield for the week ending Oct. 27 was 2,034,794 net tons.

Wanted Immediate Delivery

The magazine said the situation developed early this year when demand fell below steel producing capacity. Consumers, who were not carrying inventories, began demanding immediate deliveries from the mills. If one mill couldn't deliver on short notice, consumers turned to another.

Steel said the mills began building stocks of the standard analyses so they could process them promptly into finished steel. The inventory building at the mills kept the steel ingot rate higher than it would have been otherwise.

The magazine said producers believe their stocks are now up to the desired levels

According to the magazine, imports are hurting the steel industry, particularly producers of merchant wire products, such as fence and nails, in the southeast sections of the country.

No Relief In Sight

Steel said there is no relief in sight since the administration is readying for an all-out push during 1958 to keep foreign trade high. The magazine said the government contends imports must be kept high to provide foreign countries the dollars with which to buy united States exports.

The magazine said the reduced pace of business will show up in the fourth quarter earnings of the metalworking industry.

Steel said, however, that signs point to a better profit picture. Orders are coming in at a faster rate, especially those of automotive suppliers and price increases will be in effect for the full three months.

Production of Steel Exceeds All Expectations

NEW YORK (UP) — Steel production last week exceeded expectations but still ran below the previous week and estimates are for a further drop this week, the American Iron & Steel Institute reported today.

Mills this week are scheduling operation at 79.1 per cent of capacity to yield 2,024,000 net tons, or the smallest production since the week of July 8.

Last week the industry operated at 80.2 per cent of capacity, turning out 2,052,000 tons, smallest since Aug. 5, but above the 2,045,000-ton output which had been expected.

A month ago, the industry was operating at 82.6 per cent for 2,115,000 tons and a year ago at 101.3 per cent for 2,493,000 tons.

The production index, based on 1947-1949 average output, is estimated this week at 126.0 per cent, compared with 127.7 last week, 131.7 a month ago and 155.2 a year ago.

Brothers Land In Fayette Field

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP) — Two Baltimore brothers flying home from Chicago in a light plane were forced to land in a field near Ohiopyle Sunday night when they ran into a snow storm.

The plane was slightly damaged. Donald Kiner Huseby, 33, 1 Maple Dr., Apartment E, the pilot, suffered a cut lip and his brother, Kenneth John Huseby, 28, a cut eye brow. They were treated at Uniontown Hospital and released.

The pilot told police that he had intended to land at the Scottdale, Pa., Airport because of the bad weather, but decided he would be unable to make it.

GM Announces Price Boost

DETROIT (UP) — The Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick and Cadillac divisions of General Motors all announced price increases today for their 1958 model automobiles.

"Suggested factory list price" hikes announced by the divisions were Chevrolet 4.5 to 5 per cent, Cadillac 3.3 per cent, Buick 2.3 per cent and Oldsmobile 2.0 per cent.

Pontiac, which said its hikes would range from $50 on the two-door Chieftain sedan to $217 on the four-door Catalina sedan, did not give an overall percentage figure.

The prices do not include taxes or handling and delivery charges

Engineer Defends Women

CHICAGO (UP) — A package engineer today came to the defense of American womanhood.

"We've heard a multitude of assertions that imply our women can be hood-winked, bamboozled and otherwise film-flammed by pretty packages," said Jerome N. Michell, vice president of the Walter Frank organization.

"Well, I just want to say this isn't necessarily so," Michell said. "Anyone who thinks a woman can be tricked into buying something she absolutely doesn't want just doesn't know much about women."

Michell said his interest was aroused by recent publication of psychological studies that claimed women are influenced into buying products by the design and or the color of the package.

Not Black Magic

"This is true at times," Michell said in an interview. "But let's not get into the world of black magic. Some of these reports say women subsconsciously choose a product because they're drawn to it by some strange psychological appeal that they themselves don't understand."

Michell is in charge of design and development for his company and he indicated that most members of his craft believe far more basic scientific criteria must be the basis for package design.

"Some imply that package engineering is work for mystics, that packages are developed in something akin to seances rather than by study of basic merchandising and marketing factors," Michell said.

"Even a woman's product need not be in a pretty package if market testing indicates othersise."

Need Not Be Pretty

Packaging of products for sale in supermarkets offers the best evidence that a beautiful box does not always assure a sale, he said.

"You can have a comparative ugly duckling package, from the standpoint of color and design, but if its use can be clearly seen and the price is right, chances are good that it will go into the lady's shopping cart."

Packaging, Michell said, is an art and a craft and a science rolled into one.

"It isn't any business for half-baked generalizations about buying motives," he said "Let's not underestimate the intelligence of American women."

AFL-CIO Plans Big Campaign of Public Relations

WASHINGTON (UP)—The AFL-CIO will launch a $1,200,000 public relations campaign next year to restore organized labor's reputation, a spokesman for the federation announced today.

A key objective of the campaign would be to head off threatened anti-labor legislation in Congress and in state legislatures.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council, in authorizing the $100,000-a-month campaign left details to a nine-man committee headed by William C. Birthright, president of the Barber's Union.

Disclosures by the Senate Rackets Committee of corruption in some unions have damaged labor's general standing with the public and Congress, labor leaders fear.

The council's action last week in suspending the scandal-scarred Teamsters Union and threatening ouster of the Bakery Workers and United Textile Workers would be publicized in the campaign. The three unions were told to eliminate officials charged with corruption or leave the AFL-CIO.

The money would be spent largely on newspaper advertisements, radio and television time, and possibly films to tell the federation's story, the spokesman said.

Professor at Allegheny on Research Project

Dr. Herbert S. Rhinesmith, professor of chemistry at Allegheny College, is starting work on a research project titled "Column Chromotography of Synthetic Peptides" under a grant of $7,000 from the Research Corporation, New York.

The study is related to certain phases of the research on hemoglobin which Dr. Rhinesmith carried out during the past two years at California Institute of Technology in association with Dr. Linus Pauling, Nobel prize winner.

Dr. Rhinesmith's is the second grant by Research Corporation to Allegheny in recent months. Last June the corporation announced an award to Dr. Harold M. State, also chemistry, for a study of coordination compounds in methyl alcohol solutions.

Swifts, the most aerial of all birds, never alight on the ground unless hurt. They gather all their food and nesting material while flying; drink skimming over water and mate in mid-air.

Lamps Are Things of Beauty

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever!" Lamp designers have been browsing through the museums of the world to find the most beautiful classical and oriental art objects, and have reproduced them in lamps that will become a treasure in your home!

Inspirations for lamp bases, shapes and textures, new shade ideas are worldwide in scope.

From China: you'll see an idol in wood, white porcelain, or stone; or perhaps a Ming inspired vase base.

Greece: the sculptured head of legendary Diana; beside another lamp with an antique potery-urn traced with delicate figures in black.

The ancient Byzantine Empire contributes dazzling sunlight colors such as azure blue, lemon, wisteria, and apricot; in glass, mosaic tiles, or rich glazes in brick brown, gold and green.

From Italy comes sparkling hand-blown Venetian glass in pale to jewel tones in urn, bottle, teardrop, and vase shaped bases. Majolica-ware is crowded with figures in rich, earthy colors.

Scandinavia, and Sweden in particular, contributes the ultra-modern with ceramics, sculptured walnut wood, brass, and nailheads in many freeform designs.

It's to our own country that we turn for Early American flavor.

Shades are made of silk, shantung, linen, bamboo, or treated washable fabrics, in texture and shape to complement the base.

It is surprising to note how many are shown in warm colors to pick-up a dominant hue in the base!

Old Minds Can Handle Words

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UP)—Science isn't yet able to make precise comparisons of old minds with young minds but the newest effort to do so shows that old minds are more at ease with words and numbers than young ones.

But one of the first losses aging imposes on minds is in the memory department. Also old minds don't work as quickly, don't reason as well, and have trouble relating events to time that young minds don't have, according to this quite comprehensive study of old minds.

They were the minds of 50 retired college teachers and professional people who were 70 to 88 years old. They were equally divided as to sex. All were university graduates and at any stage of their lives all would have been classified as mentally superior.

Scientists Prepare Study

Scientists Charles R. Strother, K. Warner Schale, and Paul Horst of the University of Washington rounded them up for a series of complex psychological tests that were designed to show how their minds worked and how well.

By dividing the 50 into five groups of 10, (with five men and five women in each group), they were evenly spread out according to age. The mean age of Group 1 was 71 and of Group 5, 84. The mean ages of the groups between was 73, 75, and 79.

From previous studies of the minds of young adults who either were university students or university graduates, the scientists had statistical "norms" for young minds with which to compare their measurements of old minds.

In comprehending the meanings of words the old minds were statistically superior to the young ones up to and through the 79 years mean-age group. The 80 years-plus group were inferior to the young minds. This held true also in comprehending and using numbers.

But in reasoning, in mental agility, and in relating to time, even the youngest of the old minds (71 years, mean age) were not up to the young ones (17 years up to 26 years.)

Ease With Words

A curious matter appeared in the comparative statistics on the ease of using words. The 71-year-old group showed less ease than the young minds, but the 73-year-old group showed more ease. This greater ease was even greater in the 75-year-old group, but thereafter it declined to a little less than that of young minds.

The scientists had made a previous report but it was "preliminary." This was their final report, to a technical organ of the American Psychological Association.

They acknowledged a primary weakness of their study. This is that the minds studied in youth and in age were not the same minds. The ideal way to study minds would be to take a large number of minds when they are young and study them periodically over the many years of their aging.

New Pension Benefits to Start Friday for Many Steelworkers

New pension benefits will become effective Friday for thousands of district steelworkers.

These benefits were worked out by major steel firms and the United Steel Workers union in the 1956 contract agreement.

For USW-represented imployes who retire at 65 or reach the age of 65 after retirement on disability, the minimum monthly pension shall be based on employe's continuous service prior to retirement, up to a maximum of 30 years, and calculated as follows:

For each year of service accumulating after Nov. 1, a minimum pension of $2.50 per month for each year of service up to 30 years. This is an addition to Social Security.

Pension Formula

Prior to Nov. 1, the employe will recive a minimum of $2.40 a month for each year of continuous service up to 30 years.

The one per cent formula in the existing pension plan remains in effect. This provides generally for a pension equal to one per cent of average monthly earnings in the last 10 years times the number of years of service, minus $85 a month.

Thus, the union explains, as wages go up, more employes can use the one per cent formula to get a pension higher than the minimum.

Total Disability

Employes with at least 15 years of continuous service who become totally disabled also will receive a pension based on the one per cent formula. Prior to age 50, he is entitled to a minimum of $90 a month pension. After 50, he receives the new Social Security disability benefits — or Workmens Compensation benefits if they are due.

In addition, he will receive the same minimum of $2.40 a month prior to Nov. 1 and $2.50 a month for each year after Nov. 1 as are applicable to other retired steelworkers.

Employes with at least 15 years continuous service and reaching 60 years of age may retire at option and have a choice of a deferred pension at 65 in the full amount, but based on continuous service to the date of early retirement, or an immediate pension based on reduced pension payments.

Plant Shutdowns

A new gain in the agreement is the "vesting provision" protecting employes, reaching 40 with 15 years of continuous service, who might be laid off and not recalled within two years or whose employment shall end because of a plant shutdown.

The vested provision will give him his earned pension at 65 even though he never again returns to the company employment.

In addition, arrangements also have been made between the companies and the union whereby persioners who retire under the 1949 agreement will receive increased pensions, beginning Friday, equal to $2 a month for each year of service up to 30 years.

Those who retired under the 1954 agreement will receive increased pensions equal to $2.25 a month for each year of service up to 30. In both cases, the payments are in addition to Social Security.

Disability retirees under the 1949 agreement will have minimums increased from $50 to $60 a month; those retired on disability under the 1954 agreement will have minimum increased from $75 to $80 a month.

The new provisions, under the contract signed Aug. 3, 1956, will remain in effect to and including Oct. 1, 1959.

All four Wells were completed by Hydrafrac, the new method which has been used in drilling over 1,000 new producing Oil and Gas Wells in Ohio during the past two years. The Hydrafrac score for Ohio's Clinton Sand field is phenomenal — 8 producers out of each 10 wells drilled.

Brandes' group holds 35,000 acres under lease, including 15,000 acres in the area of the big Benedum Oil Well reported in the Oct. 7th issue of Time magazine as a 6,720 bbl. gusher. Brandes has seven more wells scheduled for drilling this year. Residents of Pennsylvania can buy interest in one well or several wells. 'Mr. and Mrs.' Chairs Help to Keep the Peace

Furniture manufacturers are very anxious to keep peace in the family. A number have recently come out with groupings which they call "Mr. and Mrs. Chairs."

These chairs are comfortable, roomy ones which are deliberately scaled to fit either the Mr. or the Mrs. of the family. The Mr. Chair normally has a higher back and deeper seat to accommodate the taller member of the family; the Mrs. Chair is smaller in scale to ensure the comfort of the lady of the house.

These groups of chairs are usually accompanied by an ottoman — and this just might cause an argument. The wise thing would be to buy two of them and be on the safe side.

While investigating the subject of comfort, be sure to look at the new reclining chairs on the market. A revolution has recently taken place in this group of furniture.

Reclining chairs are no longer unsightly, bulky things which you bought because they were wonderfully comfortable but which you consigned to a dark corner of the house. Today's recliners are styled as trimly and as attractively as any other furniture.

One new reclining chair is even available in Early American styling. It has the traditional wing back and is covered in an attractive print fabric. Yet this chair, which looks neat and trim, has all of the features of a recliner.

Reclining chairs are available in many kinds of styling and in the same variety of fabrics you will find in conventional upholstered furniture. Treat yourself to comfort. Try a reclining chair on for size — you'll love it.

Russia Is Blamed

STRASBOURG, Germany (UP)—The Consultative Assembly of the Council of Europe has put the blame on Russia for the continued division of Germany. While urging council member nations to work for world disarmament and German reunification, the assembly said Monday that Germany can not be reunited so long as the Soviet Union refuses to allow free elections in Communist-controlled East Germany.

Make More Use of Your Living Room

For some of us, who do not do a great deal of formal entertaining, the dining room constitutes a wasted area in our homes. Examine your dining room and see if by replacing some of the pieces, you might not be able to turn it into a dual purpose room, one which will offer you many more possibilities for use than your present arrangement allows.

The first thing you might do is replace your standard dining room table with a drop-lead model. This can be placed out of the way, against a wall, when you are not serving and can be easily extended when you have guests for dinner.

Using this as a beginning, consider the idea of then turning this room into a study, a library, a game room or a television room. You will be surprised at the amount of space you will have to work with.

Include in this room a china cabinet or a buffet which will give you storage space for your things, but which also contains a fall-front desk. One of the dining room chairs can act as a desk chair.

Use a small, lightly-scaled sofa in this room. It will provide you with comfortable seating for watching television — and will save a great deal of wear and tear on your more formal living room furniture. The sofa, by the way, might be a sleep sofa which will provide you with extra room for an unexpected overnight guest.

If you would like to use this room as a game room, you will like one of the dining tables which is small and square but which will extend to seat a number of guests, merely by the addition of an extra leaf or two. Chairs can then be placed around this table and will create no storage problem.

You might turn this room into your family room. It should be comfortable so that the whole family can relax in it. It will be convenient to the kitchen for quick evening snacks. And yet, by having a small, compact dining table, which extends, in the room, you will still have enough space for entertaining.

Don't let any space in your home go to waste. Use it as a conventional dining room, do not feel that you must have one just for "show." You can use the room to much greater advantage in another way.

Furnish the room to coincide with the habits of your family. It will add more comfort and convenience to your home. It will most certainly serve a much better purpose than a dining room which just gathers dust between Thanksgiving and such holidays which call for large family gatherings.

Fashion Goes 'In the Red' in Bright Spirit

Red flares up — burning its way brightly through the fashion field as the "hot" color news of the season!

Wool and jersey are especially favored by the vibrant palette-mixed red variations — but no fabric is over-looked.

Chiffon, up to now almost always in pastel, is spectacular in a brilliant red.

Satins, too, make an impression in a more fiery variety.

Shades are running from true to blue. . . from orange to burgundy. blackened red is exquisite in after-five, gayiety-gowns. Rose-red will glow after dusk in exquisite creations.

Garnet, holly, mulberry and the red-red are the top hit tones parading in the daytime collection.

Going "all out" for red, one designer even shows a full-length dinner-suit in this, the season's news-color.

Boredom Survey Is Held

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP)—You, the viewer, look at TV, but you are bored by it. What's more, your boredom is increasing year by year.

That's the unhappy conclusion reached by a New York ad agency, Cunningham and Walsh, in an unpublished survey.

Some of the details will be revealed today by John Cunningham president of the agency, in a speech before the Association of National Advertisers in Atlantic City, N. J. More of the details will be revealed here.

The agency's research department took the special "boredom" survey this past summer in New Brunswick, N. J., a town of 11,000 families, 90 per cent of whom own TV sets. The agency has been working in the town since 1948 in a continuing TV study that uses about 10 per cent of New Brunswick's population.

Index of Boredom

The boredom study used a smaller sample—about 160 men, women and teen-agers. From their comments, an "index of boredom" was compiled based on 10 representative shows.

Milton Berle was unlucky enough to finish highest in the index—he scored a 55 per cent boredom mark. Arthur Godfrey bored 47 per cent to finish an unenviable second and Red Skelton finished third, bringing yawns to 38 per cent.

At the other end of the scale, "I Remember Mama," had the lowest boredom mark — 11 per cent. The runner-up to "Mama" as a not-so-boring show was "What's My Line" which put only 21 per cent to sleep.

The conclusion drawn from the survey was that shows that depend upon a single personality—Berle, Godfrey, Skelton—are more apt to weary viewers after constant exposure than shows that revolve around a number of people.

Dial-Twitching

Says Cunningham: "the boredom factor causes dial-twitching, vacant-minded viewing, lower ratings and, as far as TV advertising is concerned, less penetration-per-skull-per dollar."

What Cunningham doesn't say in this speech is that his research department reported that the attitudes of viewers and analysis of audience ratings "are a warning of danger ahead."

In 1948, said the report, excitement about television was "running at a fever pitch." This "emotional acceptance" continued for several years, but now, viewers are "obviously watching with a much more jaundiced eye."

Perhaps the strangest fact to emerge from the report was that people watch programs even though they are tired of them. Some of those surveyed were quite hostile to the spate of westerns on TV, but they watched westerns anyway.

In Hollywood—

Miracles Still Happen In Movie Capital

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Do miracles still happen in this mixed-up town of palm trees and ballyhoo?

Once upon a time a bow-legged little girl tarried around the MGM Studio gate seeking autographs, smiling bashfully at the stars. Her name was Sandra Knight. Her father was a studio cop.

In the evenings Sandy listened wide-eyed while papa told stories about his experiences with the high and mighty of the movies. Occasionally he'd bring her a piece of cake from a studio party.

And Sandra told stories of her own — imaginative ones of how some day she, too, would be a star.

Her father said she would at least be a star to him.

Years Make Difference

He grinned with paternal pride when watching little Sandy collect autographs from Glenn Ford, Lana Turner, Van Johnson and other magical stars as they exited through the huge wrought iron gate.

That was 10 years ago.

Today Sandra is a voluptuous 19-year-old with electric blue eyes and 35-23-36-inch measurements—and nary a bow to her shapely legs.

She studied acting, but never worked professionally.

One day last August her agent sent Sandy to see Robert Mitchum for the feminine lead in his first independent production, "The Whippoorwill."

"It was the first job I ever tried for," Sandy said, nibbling daintily on a noonday salad.

"Mr. Mitchum was sitting in his ultra-modern office. There was even a bar in it. He sat and talked for 45 minutes about everything except the picture. Finally he excused me and I left.

Wins The Role

"I didn't have a chance to read a line or anything. I cried because I knew I didn't have a chance."

Two days later Mitchum's cameraman called Sandra to tell her she had won the role, that of an innocent mountain girl mixed up in a moonshine operation in the hills of North Carolina.

When cast and crew left for location shooting in the Southern state last month it was Sandy's first trip in an airplane, her first venture out of California.

"It sounds like a Cinderella fairy tale," Sandra said, "a miracle."

Now the studios are bidding for her services. All the big ones—20th Century-Fox, Universal-International, Warner Brothers. All but Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, the studio where her father still guards the main gate.

Allentown Man on State Authority

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today named Frank Hausman, Allentown contractor, to fill a vacancy on the State Highway and Bridge Authority.

The vacancy has existed since the beginning of Leader's term. It was last filled by state Rep Adam T. Bower (R-Northumberland).

Hausman was sworn in at ceremonies in the governor's office. His home is at 2717 Fairview St., Allentown.

Your Health—

Serenity In Home Health Aid

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

A peaceful home life is a healthful one. I'd like to help you keep your home both peaceful and healthy.

When you are emotionally upset, your health is bound to suffer. Ulcers, heart trouble, in fact most ailments, are aggravated by emotional outbursts.

The way to avoid such outbursts of course, is to keep your home life as serene as possible. In other words, don't quarrel with your spouse and try to keep him from quarreling with you. . . . . .

Sound impossible? Well, it can be done. And here's one way to do it:

The main thing is to keep your temper and remain quiet when your spouse sounds off at you about something which displeases him, or her (wives start arguments, too — sometimes).

Resist the Temptation

Be a doormat, if you have to, but resist the temptation to defend yourself. The meek, remember, shall inherit the earth. And there's no better time to be meek than when it will help avoid a domestic argument.

Perhaps you don't deserve the wrath of your spouse, but take it anyway. On the other hand, maybe you should be chided. If that's the case, a tongue-lashing may do you some good.

If both husband and wife follow my advice, however, there can't be any arguments. Of course, this is just dreaming and I realize it.

Gentleness coupled with kindness will beat any argument.

A full-fledged tantrum, however, might be something else again. Adults, like children, sometimes throw a tantrum in order to get what they want.

When this happens, just walk away and leave the boisterous one by himself. A tantrum just isn't worthwhile when there is no audience around to appreciate the display.

If there are a great many tantrums, psychiatric help may be indicated. The same holds true for the more quiet type of argument. A person who becomes angered with great frequency may need the help of a doctor.

Question and Answer

H. M.: Is rabbit fever carried only by rabbits:

Answer: Tularemia or rabbit fever may be carried by animals other than rabbits. Squirrels, woodchucks, foxes and coyotes have been known to carry the disease.

$579,566 Split In Fickle Fanny

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Judge Henry Ellenbogen signed an order today distributing $579,566 among 423 shareholders in the fabulous Clinton County gas well, Fickle Fanny.

The shareholders, who held 900 units of stock, were given $636 for each unit held under the order which ended a five-year legal battle.

The largest share of the money went to H.D. Ruhlman, who received $21,653 on his original investment of $3,400 in the well. Attorneys involved in the court fight were awarded $6,392 in the distribution, bringing total counsel fees in the case to $93,000.

The Fickle Fanny well yielded more than one million dollars worth of gas.
